Complete Amalgamation Advocated For All of Greater Victoria Area

Officials Wary Over Comment

A heathen given a Bible and asked a few hours later for comments on it wouldn't have been in a much worse position than Victorians who were asked last night for their views on the Chamber of Commerce amalgamation report.

But there was general agreement that the 93-page document (75 pages in locally made copies) was a valuable foundation for further study.

Mayor Percy Scurrah, for instance, said it was "too early to give a detailed opinion,' and that the report would require a great deal of study.

But he added that the report provided good groundwork for further consideration—"We have a basis to go on that can be developed from the report."

The mayor said he believed that the report's reasoning for complete amalgamation, rather than a federation of the municipalities, was sound.

Reeve Arthur Ash of Saanich said he hadn't gone through the report yet.

But he believed that "an over-all municipal organization will come in due course and we should prepare the public for it."

Reeve Ash said he was "very sympathetic to amalgamation as the ultimate aim" but that he thought nevertheless that a thorough and painstaking study of all points in the report should be made before any sort of action was begun.

Forrest L. Shaw, chairman of the joint amalgamation committee of the senior and junior chambers, was delighted with the report.

"" was well thought out and factual, and the conclusions in the main were very good," he said.

The recommended new municipality taking in all the present municipalities with their assets and their liabilities would be much better than a federation of municipalities with a superimposed group on top of autonomous individual groups, he said.

The second system, a type of which is in effect in metropolitan Toronto, "adds to expense but does the opposite for efficiency," he said.

The report indicated taxes of the outside municipalities might be expected to increase slightly in amalgamation while Victoria's might decrease slightly.

Mr. Shaw looked at it another way. Victoria would be throwing larger assets into the pot in the first place, he said, so everything would balance out.

City manager C. C. Wyatt said he had been able to go over the report briefly and considered it a good basis for continued study.

Careful Exploration Needed

"Many elements in the report will have to be carefully explored. How far we should go depends on the reception given the proposals by all municipalities and the provincial government, too."

Mr. Wyatt said he was interested to note that the report "went all out for complete unification," rather than a system of federation.

Hector Crombie, managing secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, said the senior and junior chambers had secured the report "as a sincere attempt to do something for the community," and that the directorates of both chambers had decided that it should be kept under close and continuing study.

Mr. Crombie said there was "a lot more to the report than comes forward at first reading."

Stickney Harris, Junior Chamber president, was "very impressed" with the outline of the report presented by Mr. Shaw to a joint meeting of directors of the two chambers.

"Amalgamation is inevitable, and actually the only fair way for the whole area to operate," he said. "And I say this even though I live in Oak Bay where the taxes are somewhat lower."

Esquimalt Reeve A. C. Wurtele hadn't seen the report.

His stand has been, he said, that "in due course it might be feasible to have a two-tiered or metropolitan type of government, but at the moment we couldn't see where Esquimalt, or Greater Victoria for that matter, would benefit."

"But we are always ready to listen to reason and to co-operate.

"We'll study the report with care."

Oak Bay Reeve Fred Norris "hadn't heard ,boo" about the report and in any case was "absolutely opposed" to any sort of amalgamation.

"Of course it's a prejudiced report in the first place because of its terms of reference," he said "They were, in effect, 'is amalgamation possible?' So, of course, the report had to be prejudiced.

"Amalgamation would be getting away from the whole theory of municipal government. We might as well be under the provincial government. Our people want to have some say in how their affairs are run."

Pearkes Drops Hint, Speaker Drops Plan

OTTAWA (CP) — A proposed reception by Speaker Rene Beaudoin for the two Commons holders of the Victoria Cross has been called off at the suggestion of one of the award holders — Maj.-Gen. G. R. Pearkes — it was learned Thursday.

Gen. Pearkes, Progressive Conservative member for Esquimalt-Saanich and the opposition's military critic, declined to confirm a report that he requested the reception's cancellation.

Commenting to a reporter, he said he and Speaker Beaudoin had discussed it and that the "decision was left in his hands."

It was understood, however, that Gen. Pearkes indicated he would prefer the reception be not held. There was speculation that his action follows the present Conservative attitude toward the Speaker resulting from Opposition leader Drew's unprecedented censure motion — defeated by the Commons —against Mr. Beaudoin.

The Conservatives Wednesday boycotted a reception held by the Speaker.

Public Hornswoggled

IWA Wants Probe Of Hydro Power

NANAIMO (CP)—A spokesman for 4,000 members of the International Woodworkers of America Thursday night called for a royal commission investigation of hydro-electric power in B.C.

Jack Moore, speaking for Local 1-85 of the IWA, claimed there is a conspiracy afoot "to undermine the B.C. Power Commission and allow its assets, dams and power lines to be handed over to private power interests."

"We feel the public of B.C. is being hornswoggled in regard to power," Moore told 100 residents of Vancouver Island at a debate on rate increases announced recently by the power commission.

"A private company, the B.C. Electric Company, has franchises to distribute power in major urban areas—the most lucrative and profitable—while the publicly-owned B.C. Power Commission is forced to service rural and unprofitable areas . . ."

At the same time, he said, B.C. Electric is allowed to buy power from the commission at rates much lower than the vast majority of power commission customers pay.

Mr. Moore said that as far as he could see the provincial government has no over-all power policy.

He made it clear that the IWA supports the principle of public power.

L. E. Wight, manager of the Nanaimo-Duncan district, B.C. Power Commission, explained the rate increase by stating that surplus was down to two-thirds of one per cent of investment. "It was our duty to the public to see that we continued to carry on in the black."

Ralph E. Reading, president of Mid-Island Electrical Association, complained that users of electricity for heating, representing one per cent of the commission's 62,000 customers, were hit by increases ranging up to 50 per cent.

Move Would Affect Population of 115,000

Complete amalgamation of governments and services in the Greater Victoria area is urged by the Citizens' Research Institute of Canada after an exhaustive 10-month study of the problem.

The long-awaited report on unification, made public late yesterday, said amalgamation would place the region in a position of leadership throughout the continent.

Both immediate civic interests and the long-term future of the region would be best protected under a metropolitan form of government, it was stressed.

Affected by the proposed amalgamation would be the "fully built-up" areas of Oak Bay, Victoria, Esquimalt, View Royal and the southern portion of Saanich—inhabited by more than 115,000 persons.

These areas, the report said, "obviously constitute one continuous urban complex" where residents "should have a common interest in the adequate provision of municipal services and an equal responsibility for their maintenance and further development."

Acceptance of the report by existing municipal governments would be the first concrete step toward unification, a subject that has been discussed and investigated without conclusion since 1911 when the proposal was first put forward by Victoria's then Mayor A. J. Morley.

A little more than a year ago, the Victoria Chamber of Commerce and the Junior Chamber of Commerce agreed to put up $2,500 each to engage the research group to make the investigation and submit a report.

Following interviews with scores of local officials and months of subsequent paperwork necessary to draw conclusions, the Canadian Research Institute recommended:

Setting up a "new" city council, consisting of a mayor and four aldermen elected at large, and four aldermen representing, and elected in, the four municipalities.

Area-wide management of major traffic arteries, police and fire services, town planning, justice, water supply, sewage disposal, health, welfare, schools, public libraries, supervision of beaches and parks, and civil defence.

Some of these services, the report noted, are already fully unified. However, others serve only one or two of the municipalities and should be amalgamated to prevent costly overlapping of services.

On the other hand, a federated metropolitan form of government where the existing councils remain intact to carry out services not transferred to the larger body was ruled out. This is the Metropolitan Toronto system.

The institute could not give a precise answer as to what the general financial situation of the proposed municipality would be. Its effect on municipal taxes and related impositions was also uncertain.

However, the report stated that amalgamation would guarantee a "reasonable and equitable distribution of the cost of municipal services and civic amenities."

What People Want to Know!

First thing taxpayers in the present areas will want to know is whether their particular area, following unification, will enjoy a reduction or be forced to bear an additional burden of taxes.

"If a clear-cut answer were possible," the report said, "the result might easily be that the municipalities or areas which stood to gain financially would favor unification, whereas those that had something to lose would oppose the improvement.

"If this should be the only objective of seeking financial information and the likely result of making it available, it would be preferable not to disclose it at all. If it can be assumed, however, that the citizens and taxpayers will take a larger view on the subject, then a comparative financial analysis can be of benefit."

All taxpayers cannot gain financially in the short run.

"In the long run, on the other hand, unification may open up avenues of future development that will prove to be of benefit to all or the vast majority."

Calculations made by the institute were based on the combined level of 1954 expenditures. From these figures, it was estimated that required revenues from taxation for the proposed new city would be some $2,425,000.

On the estimated 1954 municipal assessment total, a return of this amount would have required a tax rate of roughly 17 mills for general requirements — other than schools.

This would compare with rates struck at 23 mills that year in Victoria, 10 mills in Oak Bay, 8.8 mills in Saanich and 13 mills in Esquimalt.

The estimates indicate that, under unification, the tax levy for municipal purposes would decline in Victoria and increase in the three surrounding municipalities.

"But many if not all of the taxpayers would obtain some improvement in their civic services in return," it was stated. "And, more important, an equitable tax distribution would be achieved for those services which are already of metropolitan significance."

One of the touchiest problems to be solved in unification will be the relative contribution that each municipality should make towards the assets o the new enlarged corporation.

"Any decision to relieve taxpayers of one of the present municipalities from the full weight of taxation in an enlarged city would require a most painstaking analysis and would even then be decidedly debatable.

Planning Board To Help

"Before a decision can be justified to compensate the taxpayer of a particular area for particular assets by a tax credit over future years, it is necessary to examine the whole range of that area's assets and liabilities and to set these against the assets and liabilities of the other municipalities . . ."

Assistance of the Capital Region Planning Board in determining the precise northern boundary of the new city was advocated.

The suggested line of limits would follow a course from Cordova Bay west to the Patricia Bay highway, north of Royal Oak avenue; from the highway to the West Saanich road a short distance north of Royal Oak community; southwest from West Saanich road to the swamp area in the vicinity of Ivor and Charlton avenues; thence south to the View Royal line, running along the east side of Burnside.

Langford and Colwood, excluded from the proposed "city limits" because they are not considered an integral part of the area, would nonetheless come under a system of planning and "land-use control."

This additional control area would extend to Albert Head and possibly Metchosin. To the north the area would extend to the northern line of Saanich, whether the portion of that municipality excluded from the city remains a separate entity or joins Central Saanich.

The Institute recommended that the governmental framework of the proposed new city be established in three separate stages, providing for a one-year interval between the final decision and the date of actual incorporation.

Suggested stages are:

1. During the one-year interim, a special inter-municipal committee, made up of representatives from existing municipalities and the provincial government, be set up to investigate and formulate policies required for a new municipality launched on a sound basis.

2. For the first two-year term, a new municipal council be composed of a mayor and four councillors elected at large plus one representative elected from within the area of each of the four existing municipalities, with View Royal represented by the Esquimalt councillor.

Council Elected at Large

3. After council is elected for a second two-year term, every council thereafter should consist of a mayor and eight councillors elected entirely at large.

Proposed composition of the first council (five members elected at large, four regionally) would assure citizens of a majority viewpoint on an area-wide basis.

Establishment of an enlarged municipality would not mean that one of the existing municipal units would be absorbing the others, it was stressed.

"The objective rather is to create the most effective governmental framework for an area which is already in essence one continuous community."

Question of submitting the the unification proposals to the electorate by referendum "should not arise if the institue's viewpoints are accepted," the report said.

"Most problems of government have to be entrusted to representatives who are expected to study them in detail, sound out the views of their constituents and then hammer out the best form of remedial action.

"Few questions are sufficiently simple and straight-forward that they can be adequately resolved by resort to a popular vote. The evidence set forth in this report . . . shows that, under the heading of metropolitan government, the points at issue are much too complex for constructive use to be made of the referendum technique."

The institute added that "local enterprise" will not be sufficient.

"In solving a metropolitan area problem, responsible provincial government must be prepared to play a major role as well."

If local unanimity on the proposal cannot be attained, the province has the "undoubted right" to "work openly for those changes that its government believes would be most desirable."

ALL ABOARD

With G. E. Mortimore

MILLIONS of newspaper readers and television watchers are now acquainted with the inside story of President Eisenhower.

The Chicago Daily News (which has been averaging eight Eisenhower stories daily) published on its front page a small road map of the presidential digestive tract, with danger points and detours clearly marked.

This niggardly coverage was bettered by some other papers, which showed a panoramic view of ALL the president's insides.

I understand that Associated Press tried to send a man down to file a special report from near the appendix, but the internal security bureau wouldn't give him clearance.

Nevertheless, the man in the street knows more about the president's alimentary canal than he does about the St. Lawrence seaway.

American reporters, forgetting their grammar, are ending every sentence with a colon.

We Canadians are an old-fashioned lot. Only the outsides of our statesmen have been pictured in the newspapers so far. The minister of trade and commerce may have gas on the stomach; and the leader of the opposition (as his critics suggest) may have an enlarged spleen, but nobody has yet photographed these features of the political landscape.

Diagrams of the Trans Canada pipeline have appeared in the press, but the internal tubes of our politicians have never been publicly mapped.

Are they trying to hide something from us?

We do not mean to be disrespectful, but if any changes are proposed in the route of a politician's inner highway, the people should be informed, and tenders called in the correct manner.

Thetis Logging Mooted

City council may go ahead soon with its 1955 plan to pay for development of Thetis Lake park by selective logging of back areas of the Thetis lake watershed.

The plan was tabled last fall to give the provincial government an opportunity to say whether it was interested in taking over the city-owned Thetis lake property and developing it as a park.

Ald. Geoffrey Edgelow suggested yesterday that council should stop waiting and go ahead with the plan, since the government had given no indication of interest.

Council decided to give the government another two weeks.

When British Columbia's comparatively new gas act went into effect, Victoria was required to employ a gas inspector.

Later the act was modified so that at the request of a municipality, the government could take over the gas inspection service.

Council decided to ask the government to reconsider.

Garden Notes

Here's Remedy For Baked Soil

By M. V. CHESNUT, FRHS

Heavy clay soils tend to crack and bake rather than dry out evenly in dry weather, and this can be most annoying. Apart from the unsightliness of cracks in the lawn, these crevices permit precious moisture to escape by evaporation from the lower soil levels, which is bad business.

If this should happen to your lawn, your best bet is to spike the surface all over, preferably with a hollow-tined fork or its mechanical equivalent, but failing this, the job can be done with an ordinary digging fork. Shove the tines straight down vertically to a depth of about five inches, then wiggle the handle back and forth a bit to enlarge the holes. Do this every six inches all over the lawn.

SAND, MOSS

Next, dress the lawn with a 50-50 mixture of course sand and peat moss, with a little fertilizer added. I find that one bucket of sand, one bucket of peat, and three cups of Vigoro, throughly mixed together, works well on my lawn. If there are any thin or patchy spots, I dump a couple of handfuls of grass seed in the mixture as well. The mixing is done with a coal shovel on the concrete floor of my garage, and should be done as thoroughly as if you were mixing cement.

Next job is to spread the stuff on the freshly spiked lawn, putting down about half a bucketful per square yard. Spread it around evenly with a rake, then work it over with an old broom to get as much of it as possible down into the holes and cracks.

BAD BUSINESS

Baking and cracking of the surface soil in flower beds and vegetable plots is bad business too, not only for the moisture loss, but because plant roots get torn as the clay soil chinks and cracks.

Mulching will prevent this condition, but if no mulching materials are available, the best thing you can do is to keep the top two or three inches in a finely broken condition with the hoe. Let this loose soil become as sun-baked as possible, for if it gets really dried out properly, it will lose its stickiness and later, when it is turned in, it will act as sand.

KEEP CLEAR

When rain falls, it is wise to keep clear of clay soil and not walk on it any more than absolutely necessary. Following a good rain is the time to spread a mulch of straw, leaf mould lawn mowings and the like. Providing your plants are not lime-haters, it pays to put down a dusting of hydrated lime first, before the mulch. This will improve drainage by their tunneling, and will drag down bits of the mulch into the lower levels of the soil.

Navy Day, Aug. 15

Sailors Will Go All Out On Land, Sea, in the Air

Parade, Trips at Sea, Fireworks Planned

By BRUCE LOWTHER

On land, on sea and in the air, the Pacific Command of the Royal Canadian Navy will throw everything it has and more into "Navy Day," Wednesday, Aug. 15.

Preliminary program was released yesterday by supervisor Capt. Robert P. Welland, commanding officer of HMCS Venture, highlighted by the news that most events will be moved to a more central location — Beacon Hill park.

The program includes an hour-long parade, trips to sea, public inspections, scores of displays on land, target and rocket firing, depth charge dropping, frogmen, band concerts, sea chanties, sunset ceremony, fireworks and street dance.

"We're expecting at least 40,000 people," said Capt. Welland.

Coupled with the program announcement was a call for entries to a competition involving model yachts, power boats and aircraft and kites. First prize in each category is $25 and man winners will receive trips to sea or flights in naval aircraft.

"Entry forms will be printed as soon as possible," the supervisor said. "Boys should get to work right away."

The big day begins with a parade from Bapco Paint along downtown streets, featuring "many marching men, lots of bands, horses and floats from all the armed services, many of them humorous."

Flotilla Enters Harbor

After the parade, the cruiser Ontario, three destroyers, three or four frigates, six minesweepers and other craft will sail into the harbor. Some will be open for inspection and others will take fortunate youngsters to sea.

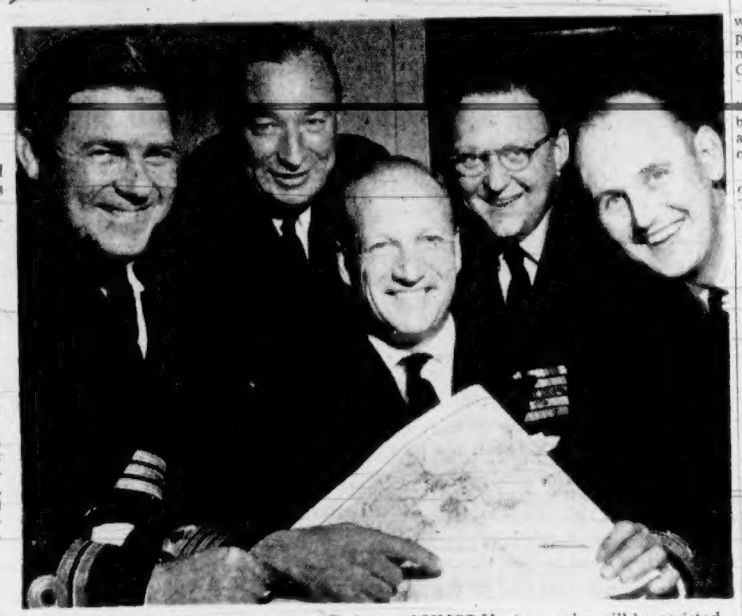
Details of a contest to choose 2,000 boys for the trips will be announced shortly. Each passenger will tour his vessel and receive a special certificate as a memento.

Displays at Beacon Hill park will open about 12 noon. There will be room for 30,000 to 40,000 persons to examine aircraft and watch such items as a "crossing the line" ceremony and frogmen in a tank 30 feet long, 15 wide and eight feet deep.

Admiral H. F. Pullen officially opens the event at 2.30 p.m. Half and hour later, a destroyer will anchor close to shore at Horseshoe bay and fire at a target towed by naval aircraft, an event to be repeated at 8 p.m. A torpedo may also be fired inside.

Avenger fighters will fire rockets during the afternoon program and frogmen will destroy a model aircraft carrier anchored 150 yards offshore. Acrobatic displays will be seen and sea chanties heard as the evening program begins at 7.30 p.m.

With the arrival of dusk, 160 men will take part in a floodlit sunset ceremony before a specially-built, 50-foot flagpole in the park. Ontario will stage a fireworks display offshore and HMCS Naden band will play popular tunes for a street dance which continues until close to midnight.



Every one of the 5,000 men in the Royal Canadian Navy's Pacific Command will have a job to do on Aug. 15, "the biggest Navy Day ever." Boss of the show will be Capt. R. P. Welland, centre, head of HMCS Venture, who will be assisted by, from left, Lieut. E. A. MacFayden, Cmdr. John Hall, Lt.-Cmdr. Fred Palmer and Lt.-Cmdr. Ray Sylvester. —(Colonist photo by Jim Ryan.)

Reprieved from Gallows, Dyck Faces Fourth Trial

REGINA (CP)—Jacob Dyck's appeal from the murder conviction which was to send him to the gallows July 24 was allowed Thursday by Saskatchewan Appeal Court.

The 45-year-old Dyck now will face his fourth jury trial, probably in September at the next sittings of Queen's Bench Court.

It was believed by legal au- [illegible] here that the September trial will see the first time a man has been tried four times on the same murder charge.

Dyck was convicted April 23 of the bludgeon murder of Mike Todor, 74.

In ordering the new trial, the appeal court upheld the defence argument that the judge's charge to the third jury was defective.

W. Lloyd Hipperson, defence counsel, also had charged during the appeal that Dyck's conviction was a "frame-up."

He questioned evidence of the chief crown witness, Elizabeth Tootsie La Fleche, who later was convicted as an accessory after the fact and given a five-year prison term.

Mr. Justice A. T. Proctor also had criticized the trial judge for failing to say in his charge to the jury that Miss La Fleche was an "unmitigated liar" as well as a "drug addict, alcoholic, thief, self-confessed perjurer and bigamist."

Huge Mica Creek Dam Feasible, Say Experts

OTTAWA (CP)—Feasibility of a $247,000,000 hydro - electric power project at Mica creek on the Columbia river in British Columbia has been proved by consulting engineers, Gen. A. G. L. McNaughton said Thursday.

The chairman of the Canadian section of the International Joint Commission also said there is every indication a similar favorable report will be made on a proposed hydro project at Murphy creek on the Columbia north of Trail, B.C.

Testifying before the Commons external affairs committee, Gen. McNaughton discounted proposals for construction of 10 dams on the Fraser river and its tributaries in B.C. for harnessing power and facilitating the movement of salmon up and downstream.

U.S. APPROVAL NEEDED

The report on the proposed Mica creek project, which would help relieve B.C.'s present and future power shortages, was prepared by the commission's international Columbia river engineering board.

Gen. McNaughton said outside the committee that any decision on whether a power plant will be built rests with the B.C. government. The project also would require U.S. approval because the Columbia is an international river.

More Respect Demanded

VANCOUVER (CP) — A toast to the Queen is more than a signal to smoke at a banquet.

The Canadian Legion Wednesday passed a resolution criticizing those showing "lack of respect" when the toast is proposed at public functions.

Legion members were asked to observe courtesy to the Queen after delegates complained that some persons ignore the national anthem and fail to salute the colors by not standing to attention or removing their hats.

Dependence on Electricity

VICTORIA'S 50-minute blackout on Wednesday night showed to what degree the city is dependent on the B.C. Power Commission for its electricity. Consumers here are customers of the B.C. Electric Company, but it was a breakdown in the publicly-owned system which darkened the city, thereby illustrating the interlocking arrangement of distribution.

Under the division of territory established when the Power Commission was set up by the Coalition government the B.C. Electric enjoys the exclusive right to supply power to the southern end of Vancouver Island. There is an agreement, however, whereby one system can help out the other by selling power surplus to the requirements of its own customers. In the early stages of construction at Campbell River the commission bought from the B.C. Electric, but with the increase of output from the John Hart Development and of demand on the limited capacity of the private company's generators the flow was later reversed. Much of the power now serving industries and homes in this region is fed into the B.C. Electric distribution system from the commission's transmission lines.

This mutual assistance arrangement has advantages for the public of both power districts, enabling one system to take up the slack for the other in the event of an emergency such as occurred on Wednesday night. At a time when power available from all sources is barely able to keep up with the demands of industrial and domestic growth, however, the knocking out of part of either system could be serious for the whole Island, particularly if repairs were to take a long time. The livelihood of thousands upon thousands of families is dependent on the availability of power to keep industries going. In the home a power failure is a nuisance which can be survived, but a prolonged industrial failure could be economically disastrous.

Luckily the danger of sudden widespread shortage of power on Vancouver Island should be removed before long. The submarine cable to be laid across the Strait of Georgia for the B.C. Electric this summer will connect the Island with a mainland network so extensive that power could be brought in even from the United States if a major disaster ever occurred. That vast reservoir of power presumably will be available to the commission as well as the company owning the underwater connecting cable.

The Queen and Canada

A LONDON journalist has advanced the intriguing idea that the Queen should set up house in Canada and stay here for two months every year. Something of this nature has been suggested before on the basis that brief visits once in a long time do not satisfy the feelings of Canadians for a closer link with the ruling sovereign. Interesting though this suggestion is it does not bear too close examination.

In the first place Canada could scarcely be so favored without similar consideration being given to Australia and New Zealand, which are equally loyal and anxious to see more of the Queen. Other member states of the Commonwealth might also claim some right to attention if the Throne is to be parcelled around, as it were. Even in this flying age, however, travelling from London to Ottawa, Canberra or Wellington is not quite like going from Buckingham Palace to Balmoral or Sandringham.

There is also some dubiety about the thought of a peripatetic sovereign forced to be constantly perambulating between her far-flung capitals; such a policy would certainly be unsettling, even unfair, to the private life of a Royal family thus made rootless. The disruptive effect on the United Kingdom also would be profound, for the monarchy is interwoven with the affairs and lives of the British people to a degree not possible and never experienced in the several Dominions.

The suggestion was made with the thought in view that some day Canada may become the strongest part of the Commonwealth. This could well be so for Canada is merely on the threshold of her development in population and wealth, and seems destined in time to outstrip the human and physical resources of Great Britain. Power follows growth and as a world force conceivably Ottawa could loom as the focal point of Commonwealth affairs. Not the least interesting part of any such transition would be the position of the monarchy, which as an institution has always managed to adapt itself to the changing circumstances of its realms. That day is yet a long way off, however.

The same London source has suggested that as an alternative meanwhile the Queen Mother should be invited to become governor-general. This too is a thought which has been previously advanced. Assuming that Her Majesty was agreeable—and members of the Royal family are surely entitled to some volition of their own in such matters, so vitally affecting their own personal life and happiness—no more acceptable course could be envisaged. Canada would be delighted to have as the next incumbent of Rideau Hall the gracious lady it remembers as its Royal guest of 1939.

Minor Tariff Concessions

ANNOUNCEMENT made recently at Ottawa of tariff concessions agreed to by Western lands as a result of the General Agreement on Trade and Tariffs' conference which sat at Geneva was submerged under the interest of more dramatic news. Nevertheless the concurrences reached after months of debate at the conference are a step, though a modest one, in the right direction. So long as nations agree in their mutual interest to avoid tariff conflict there will be hope of more positive action, tariff reduction on a broad and far-reaching scale.

In the present instance Canada stands to benefit from tariff reductions listed by the United States on some 150 items concerning this nation. That was only part of some 650 items included in the downward revision of U.S. rates. On its part, Canada has already agreed to abide by the GATT formula, with concessions to other lands in that connection. The sum of the matter is that signatories to the Geneva convention are standing by their pledges, and there is encouragement in that for the trade of the Western world.

Because the changes concerned in the latest step do not affect the average Canadian household the significance of this event has been overlooked. Indirectly, however, the nation will benefit, and the more so by reason of this fresh assurance against rising tariff walls.

Enjoying Life to the Full

By NORMAN MOSS

North American Newspaper Alliance

THE state of Sir Winston Churchill's health delights his countrymen as much as President Eisenhower's illness has dismayed Americans, for Sir Winston is one of the healthiest 81-year-olds in Britain today.

Rumors circulating in the U.S. that the ex-premier's health has been failing since his strenuous trip to West Germany last month are dismissed by those in daily contact with him.

"He's in the pink of condition," said one.

His is not a spry, athletic strength. When he entered the Aachen town hall last month to receive the Charlemagne prize for his contribution to the European spirit, four husky German firemen carried him up the building's 32 steps in an armchair.

His strength lies in his capacity for mental activity of a vast scope, and an alertness and grasp of situations given to few men.

None of his Aachen audience saw him carried up the steps. But they saw him later, speaking in his famous flat, vigorous tones, as he presaged a new international scene with a new Russia playing "a part in a true unity of Europe."

Of the many roles he has filled in his life, Sir Winston now devotes his energies to two: elder statesman and author.

The first of these he plays only on the international scene. His retirement from the leadership of Britain in April, 1955, was a genuine one. He has dispelled the fears of those who thought he might use his unique moral authority to exercise power on the cabinet's decisions from behind.

Sir Winston's appearances in the House of Commons are not very frequent and his participation in debate is rare. A murmur of approval is heard from both Conservative and Labor members when his majestic bulk makes an entrance and moves slowly and cautiously down the aisle to settle in his corner seat on a front bench. He is an object of interest as he leans forward to watch the debate, alert and with his clear blue eyes sparkling.

To one veteran parliamentary observer he seems on these occasions "the big man, watching the little men play."

The only concession that as a parliamentarian Sir Winston makes to his age is that he does not stay in the House late into the night.

Most of his working time these days is taken up with writing, which he has practiced for more than 50 years. He is writing his "History of the English Speaking Peoples," of which the first volume already has been published.

Throughout his life Sir Winston's health has stood up well to the strains he imposed upon it, the strains of action in youth—as war correspondent and fighting cavalryman and officer—and of political life and huge responsibility from the age of 30 onwards.

He was knocked down by a New York City taxi in 1931. He came down with pneumonia three times during the last war, when he walked through cold nights of fire and destruction in the capital city to visit one air raid shelter after another.

Thinking Aloud

Economic Commentary

". . . of shoes—and ships—and sealing wax—of cabbages and kings."

By TOM TAYLOR

BACK home in England after creating quite a to-do in this country, J. B. Priestley says, among other things, that Canadians are shy. Unless he means they were wary when they met him—not surprising perhaps for his reputation precedes him—he wouldn't meet enough Canadians to justify his assessment.

It is doubtful anyway that Canadians are any more shy than other peoples. Talking now of native-born Canadians I would say they are not; they have poise enough to give them assurance in any company. Unless an individual is an extrovert, however, the usual thing is to bide one's time before exposing the full flower of one's personality.

Perhaps it was only that Mr. Priestley found Canadians reserved; not too bad a quality really.

* * *

I can think aloud on this subject with some propriety because although few may guess it I am rather a shy person myself. Only after I get to know people do I come out of my shell, whereupon I fear my companions are apt to wish I had remained in a state of bashfulness. This is a sad confession really, for a newspaperman has no business to be shy at the outset of anything.

Remember that if ever you are inclined to dub a reporter a bit pushing in his enquiries. Being bashful can't be part of his stock in trade.

Actually this circumstance makes Mr. Priestley's appraisal quite strange, for he met lots of newsmen while in Canada recently and judging by his own comments then they were anything but shy.

But as I say, shyness belongs to no race particularly. Having lunch over in Vancouver last weekend I spotted some members of the Aberdeen soccer team sitting at an adjoining table. As I passed on my way out I stopped to give them a greeting. My tongue should have reassured them but whereas they had been chatting volubly among themselves they reacted shyly when I spoke to them. The fault may have been mine—perhaps my looks made them suspicious of a stranger—but they answered only when I addressed them, much as one is supposed to behave with royalty. Being young chaps, however, possibly they were simply being polite to an elder.

Mention of royalty reminds me that repeatedly one reads that this or that member of the reigning family is a shy person. I have noticed this said of every British prince relevant to my lifetime. I find this difficult to believe, if only because they shouldn't be shy. Since they are trained specifically for what is essentially a supreme example of public relations ease of manner in public should be second nature to them.

* * *

The same could be said of the realm of entertainment, where one might think no shy person could possibly get along. Nevertheless in Victoria last fall I met an entertainer, Jimmy Shand the band leader and accordionist, who was so bashful it war painful. I haven't got over it yet.

Simple quietness is often mistaken for shyness. That perennial stale joke about Mr. Priestley's countrymen in railway carriages having to be introduced before they will speak to one another—which I have found myself to be a libel—could stem from neither snobbery nor shyness but merely from a desire to be left alone either to think or read a newspaper. And in this hectic age that is a virtue and not a fault.

I have never met Mr. Priestley but it seems apparent he never will be accused of being shy. His preference might therefore be for the extrovert or at least for those who do not wait to be invited before they claim the centre of the stage. Perhaps this was why he thought Canadians shy.

Freezing the Channels of Trade

By JOHN KINGSLEY, from London

A FOURTH round of tariff negotiations conducted under the aegis of the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade was recently completed in Geneva and the results are now available in a formidable volume in which are published the schedules of the tariff concessions to be made by the countries that have taken part.

The results of these successive attacks on world tariffs are almost bound in the nature of things to yield diminishing returns. The first and major assault under the GATT against the tariff walls which the post-war world had inherited from the great depression of the 1930s was made in 1947 at Geneva; the second of the GATT tariff negotiations held at Annecy in 1949 and the third at Torquay in the winter of 1950-51 also took place at a time when tariffs were still among the lesser obstacles to world trade, and when quantitative restrictions such as quotas and import licensing based for the most part on balance of payments difficulties were the real obstacles that international trade had to overcome.

In those circumstances, tariff concessions tend to be more readily granted than in a climate of payments freedom when the protectionist character of tariff barriers begins to emerge again.

* * *

For all these reasons—the considerable breaches in tariff walls already agreed in the three tariff negotiations and the new reality of tariffs in a world of progressive liberalization of international payments—it had been widely assumed that the fourth round of these tariff negotiations which opened at Geneva last January and ended on May 23 last would yield negligible if any results.

Indeed, there were many signatories to the GATT who would not have consented to the holding of a fourth round of tariff negotiations had it not been for the fact that this was their only chance to take advantage of the tariff-reducing powers conferred on the president of the United States by the Reciprocal Trade Agreements Act of 1955.

* * *

This pervading scepticism has been happily rebutted by the actual outcome of the negotiations. The import trade of the 22 negotiating countries in the items affected by the concessions exchanged in these latest negotiations is estimated at about $2,500,000,000. This includes concessions extended both by way of reduced tariffs and of guarantees that existing rates of duty will be held steady. The volume of trade involved is thus significant.

Where the cynics and pessimists have been most nearly right in their prognostication is in the modesty of the concessions exchanged between the negotiating countries. The measure of these concessions was to a large extent dictated by the tariff-cutting powers wielded by the United States delegation, namely the power to reduce tariffs by 15 per cent of existing rates over the next three years and to reduce to 50 per cent ad valorem any duty in excess of that figure.

Under the Reciprocal Trade Agreements Act the rights to reduce tariffs are subject to the reservation that the reductions should be spread in three instalments over three years. The first of these instalments had under the terms of this legislation to be effected by June 30 of this year. That very fact determined the timing as well as the general nature and size of the concessions extended during these latest tariff negotiations.

To say that the results of these negotiations have been modest is not, however, to disparage their contribution to international trade. What merchants and industrialists engaged in world trade need above all is some reliance on the stability of tariffs. That is precisely what the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade helps to give them—not in perfect and complete measure but to a degree that was not attained before the GATT came into being. If the latest round of negotiations had done no more than extend the area over which existing tariffs are "bound" it would have deserved well of those engaged in them.

It has done more than that. Through the 57 bilateral agreements negotiated by the countries which participated in the Geneva discussions, numerous though modest reductions in tariffs have been made. Their effect is to maintain the trend towards lower tariffs and freer trade. The momentum of the constructive movement that was begun immediately after the end of the war with the signature of the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade has been preserved.

The advantages for international trade must not, however, be viewed solely in terms of direct benefits secured by reductions in tariffs from these negotiations. Of equal if not greater importance is the evidence they have provided of the willingness of governments to continue to work together towards the freeing of the clogged channels of international commerce and the expansion of world trade. Britain as a world trader, banker and insurer has a special interest in everything that conduces to these ends.

The wider significance of the latest of the GATT tariff negotiations may well outweigh the direct advantages secured by lower tariffs on British goods entering the United States and other markets and may yet prove that the welcome given to the latest round of tariff negotiations has been altogether too restrained.

There is No 'Pure' Water

(From The Calgary Albertan)

DR. Gordon Bates, director of the Health League of Canada, clears up a controversial point in the fluoridation controversy:

"The argument that fluorine is a medicine seems to be silly. One might just as well argue that water is a medicine. Water is in effect an essential part of nutrition.

"Drinking water already contains many chemical substances which it picks up from the beds of lakes and rivers. Without these substances water would cease to be palatable. The proportion of these chemicals varies in different places. If they exist in excess they may have to be removed. Fluorine—is one of the chemical substances found in water. If there is not enough, caries of human teeth develop.

"Evidently fluorine, like water itself, is essential in human diet. If fluorine is a medicine water is a medicine and ordinary table salt, another essential in human diet, is a medicine too."

In other words there is no such thing as "pure water," except in the laboratory, and fluorine, in varying quantities, exists naturally in water just the same as 10 or 15 other salts do. Where it exists in moderate quantity it does much good and no harm, and the problem is to restore a deficiency wherever it exists.

Fun, Fact and Fiction

Just before Goodwin Knight took office as Governor of California he found himself aboard a train with a group of lunatics being conveyed to an asylum. The guard was counting off "One, two three, four," when he came across "Goodie" Knight.

"Who are you?" demanded the guard. Knight drew himself up and announced proudly, "You are addressing the next governor of California."

"Okay," said the guard. "Get in line. Five, six, seven, eight . . ."

The Packsack

Of GREGORY CLARK

WITH the departure of the horse as practically a member of human society, the ancient art and craft of horse-trading has also departed from human intercourse. Indeed, the meaning of the word horse-trading is fast vanishing from popular understanding. When a politician of the older school refers to horse-trading, nobody realizes that he is employing an abusive epithet.

Trading horses, in those days so recently gone when our whole economy depended upon the horse, afforded human nature an outlet for all the larceny, swindling, cheating and petty flimflamming that came naturally to it. It was a game in which all levels of society could engage, from the humblest dirt farmer up to the swells who owned racing stables, trotters, pacers and fancy roadsters. (A roadster was a horse that pulled a buggy, high cart or fly with style along the road.)

The only counterpart to horse-trading that remains in our time is in renting summer cottages. And in some respects it is serving very well as a substitute.

Not everybody can get away in early spring, when the urge to line up a summer cottage begins to get hot in order to look at and examine the cottages they read about, hear about or find out about by letter or telephone.

This is where the horse-trading instinct, latent in human nature, horse or no horse, comes in. For example, the owner of the cottage is fancy free to describe all its charms, the view, the ideal location, the maple furnishing, the full quota of dishes, pots, pans, the handsome electric ice box and all.

The potential lessee is equally free. He suggests that only he and his wife and two small and extremely well-behaved children are going to be using the cottage, though he knows darn well that his brother and his family, his mother-in-law, a friend of hers and no doubt a maiden aunt or two are going to share the cottage, including the rent. In fact, 14 people are to be stuffed into it.

Who wins the horse trade when they get up to the cottage and find it is jammed in between two other cottages closer than booths at a country fair, and each inhabited by 14 people? And the beach washed out five years ago, and the floors have started to sag and there is a mouse nest in the kitchen drawer—the only kitchen drawer?

It is a great game, cottage-renting. So was horse-trading.

Letters to the Editor

Reward of Faith

At a regular meeting of the Cowichan Electrical Association it was the opinion of the members that they should register their disapproval of the unfair distribution of the recent rate increases made by the B.C. Power Commission.

Under the old rate a residential consumption of 2,500 kwh would cost $28.71; under the new rate this same consumption will cost $40.32. We feel that this terrific increase of $11.61, which is 33 per cent over and above previous rates, is outrageous. This percentage of increase varies with the amount of consumption both in residential and commercial rates, and while the smaller consumer will have an increase of a minimum of 11 per cent, some of the larger consumers will be hit as high as 50 per cent.

These larger users are the very people who had faith in the power commission and installed electrical equipment which cannot be removed or replaced without great expense. Yet these are the very people who are being penalized.

In the last few weeks we have been told by local power commission officials that due to the increased demands on the generation and distribution facilities, the B.C. Power Commission is faced with a large capital expenditure for expansion. We submit that if it were not for the new pulp mills and their respective demands there would be adequate power with existing facilities for some time. Evidently the long-term contracts with private industries are not paying their way even though their yearly profits have amounted to millions of dollars, percentage-wise as high as 20 per cent net on their capital investments.

Instead of hitting the owners of the power commission with these added expansion costs, should we not revise or cancel any contract which is not profitable to the commission? It is a strange thing that the private citizen is unable to obtain the secret terms of these pulp mill and B.C. Electric (Victoria) contracts! Is it true that the B.C. Electric buys power wholesale from our company at ¼ of a cent per kwh as against the system average to the private individual of 2.6 cents residential and 2.5 cents commercial per kilowatt hour?

It has always been our belief that the B.C. Power Commissioners were appointed to manage our utility to our advantage and for the protection of the public. In conclusion we therefore ask the commissioners to review the recent rate increases and to apply increases, if justified, in a sensible and equitable manner.

FRED B. WILSON,
President,
Cowichan Electrical Contractors' Assoc.

Life-Guards Needed

Having read about the double drowning at Thetis, would it not be a good idea to have a life-guard for, say, at least three months in the summer at Thetis lake, and then this sort of tragedy would, perhaps, be avoided?

Lakes are so dangerous as they go deep suddenly, and any who cannot swim are in real trouble quickly if they try getting in from the side they are not familiar with.

In these days when so much money is being wasted, personally I feel a paid life-guard should be on the job for the summer months, as there seems to be such a waste of life in drownings these days. What if it does cost a few hundred dollars to hire a life-guard, what is that to a life? You can get money back, but not so with a life once it has gone. It is to be hoped the right people will take notice.

Raw Milk Advocate

What a lot of nonsense some of the advocates of pasteurized milk put out. Now one says that all raw milk should be marked with "skull and cross bones." Are these people connected in some way with the commercial firms who benefit most from pasteurization?

Having lived for nearly 70 years without benefit of pasteurized milk, and without any kind of infection, I can safely advocate raw milk as being of far greater value than pasteurized, which loses valuable properties in the process, and is dead as compared with live raw milk.

In reference to your editorial: yes, "Freedom of the Press" should indeed be defended, not only by the press but by us all.

Freedom carries grave responsibility as to how it is used — to use and not abuse — and for the press includes resisting the temptations to suppress or exaggerate news and expression of public opinion in the papers. Yes, we are thankful for a free press. Let us all defend it and all that it means.

Possible Penalty, Five Years

Truman Regime Officials Guilty of U.S. Tax Fraud

ST. LOUIS (UP)—Two high Truman administration officials, Matthew J. Connelly and T. Lamar Caudle, were convicted yesterday of charges of conspiracy to defraud the United States in the handling of a tax case.

A jury of eight men and four women, all from rural Missouri, found them guilty after deliberating nine hours and five minutes.

Attorneys for Connelly, White House aide to former president Truman, and Caudle, until 1951 chief counsel for the tax division of the justice department, announced they would seek a new trial. If the new trial is refused, they said they would appeal.

Federal Judge Rubey M. Hulen, who presided over the marathon six weeks trial, set July 19 for sentencing and hearing of motions for a new trial. Hulen also has before him a motion for judgment of acquittal.

Connelly and Caudle were charged with conspiring with Harry I. Schwimmer, a Kansas City, Mo., attorney and frequent caller at the White House, to allow a St. Louis shoe broker, Irving Sachs, to escape criminal trial for income tax invasion.

FIVE YEARS

The offence carries a maximum penalty of five years in prison and a $10,000 fine.

Both defendants took the verdict calmly. Connelly made no comment but Caudle declared that "my conscience is so clear and so open I can face my God, my sweet children and my friends. I have no apologies for anything I have done."

Connelly is a New York public relations representative. Caudle is a Wadesboro, N.C., lawyer.

Attorneys for both men were caustic in brief statements about the verdict. John Lashly, counsel for Connelly, said his belief in "my client's innocence is unshaken. I propose to go as far as necessary to vindicate him."

NEW DELHI (AP) — Five days of earthquakes in Afghanistan may have killed more than 100 persons, reports from Kabul said Thursday.

The tremors, described as the land-locked Asian area's worst recorded earthquake apparently were strongest in the mountains of northern Afghanistan, an area peopled largely by primitive nomadic tribes.

Nine-Hour Strike Cripples New York

NEW YORK (AP) — The first all-out subway strike in New York's history hit the United States' biggest transit system without warning Thursday. It lasted more than nine hours, crippling all three lines.

Subway officials estimated 780,000 persons were stranded by the tie-up. The system carries 4,500,000 passengers a day.

A vast, perilous crush of humanity built up underground during the evening rush hour. But it finally was dispersed without injury or panic.

On a steaming day of 96.1-degree record heat, 8,000,000 New Yorkers were confronted with a transpor- fouled from Coney Island to the Bronx, from Times Square to the distant sections of Queens.

GIGANTIC TRAFFIC JAMS

With the subways crippled, hundreds of thousands of stranded riders besieged bus lines, taxis and trains. Gigantic traffic tieups occurred as private cars were pressed into service to get people about the city.

But the real drama of the historic strike was unfolded in dimly lit subway platforms deep beneath New York's skyscrapers.

There hundreds of thousands of men, women and children — near prostration from the stifling heat —milled around in spectacular con- came.

The Transit Authority, which operates the subway lines under state mandate, finally waived the punitive provisions of a state anti-strike law to get the motormen back to work.

VAST CONFUSION

The law calls for the dismissal of subway strikers. The Transit Authority, however, agreed to take back any motormen wanting to work — including more than 100 suspended during a hectic day of vast confusion.

Although only 22% of the 3,145 subway motormen took part in the wildcat strike, they were able to tie up two of the three lines for brief periods. One estimate said 90 per cent of the city's subway system was tied up.

The Transit Authority's offer of amnesty was only minutes old when officials of the striking Motormen's Benevolent Association—a small, independent union fighting for recognition—left a conference to announce the strike's end.

"We are going back to work," a spokesman announced.

Trains began to rumble over struck trackage, roaring into stations that for hours had been ghostly quiet and desolate of passengers.

Britain, U.S. May Pool Data On Atom-Power Submarine

WASHINGTON (AP) — The U.S. has signed an agreement with Britain for exchange of information on military atomic engines under which the British government presumably will obtain facts about the pioneer U.S. atomic power submarine, the Nautilus.

The state department announced the agreement had been signed on Wednesday. ... said it was mainly concerned with technical matters.

When reporters pressed for information today on the wording of the announcement which indicated a considerable broadening of British-American cooperation in the atomic field, White said he would try to get answers in the course of the day.

The agreement contains this wording which White was unable to amplify:

"The fact of this amendment is to broaden the scope within which exchanges may take place in two respects:

"(a) Information regarding the reference to materials used military package power re in atomic energy programs actors and other military re- meant that if Britain had ... actors for the propulsion of ... developed some form of radio- vessels, aircraft, and active material which the United States did not have the U.S. ... land vehicles."

White said he understood that might get access to it.

B.C. Normal School

Largest, Final Class Graduates

Some 320 Provincial Normal school students, members of the largest and last graduating class of the institution, will join one of the best trained and experienced teaching bodies in Canada, Frank-lin P. Levirs, chief inspector of schools for B.C. said last night.

Speaking at the school's graduation banquet at Central junior high school, he noted that 36.2 per cent of B.C. teachers have university degrees, the highest ratio of all provinces.

The province's teachers stand second only to Alberta in average years of experience—9.1 years, and the province has the highest percentage of teachers trained for specialized jobs.

SMALL TURNOVER

B.C. also has the smallest turnover of teachers, he said. "This is significant because you will find pupils learn much faster when they don't change their teachers every year."

"If we as teachers are not fully professional, we are well on the way to being so," Mr. Levirs said.

The tradition that has been established by the succeeding staffs of the Normal school, will not disappear, said Mr. Levirs, but will be continued in the College of Education of Victoria College when established in the fall.

William McMichael, principal, Central junior high school, told the class, "It is our task through channels such as character education, to make the child a good citizen, to bring him into line with society."

He was replying to the toast to the supervising teachers made by Dennis Tupman, president of the Literary Club.

TO FACULTY

George Brand, a member of the Normal school staff, replied to the toast to the faculty, proposed by Peter Williamson.

Miss Tannis Killough, a 20-year-old from Castelgar, B.C., was presented with the Denton memorial award by J. F. K. English, assistant deputy minister of education.

The Maxwell Cameron memorial prize was presented to Miss Rosie Franz of Osoyoos.

Henry C. Gilliland, principal, and toastmaster of the banquet, introduced the following honor students to Dr. English.

Miss Ruth Donaldson, Miss Rosie Franz, Miss Mavis Jowsey, Miss Tannis Killough, Miss Donna Landers, Sister Mary Jeanine, Miss Shirley Lynch, Miss Joan Miller, Miss Evelyn Mouat, Miss Jacqueline Ormond,, Sister Ellen Maureen, Miss Margaret Rounce, Miss Francis Smigol, Miss Kathleen Thornberry, Miss Violet Tanzetich, and Sister Mary Dolorosa.

Valedictorian was Gerald Guest.

Starving Flier Crawls Out Of Jungle

IPOH, Northern Malaya (Reuters — Aborigines Thursday found a young British flier starving and crawling on his hands and knees through dense jungle into which his plane crashed 20 days ago.

An army spokesman identified the airman as Sgt. Ken McConnell. He was described as "weak but in good heart" and is expected to recover fully.

McConnell's wife had given up hope that he would be found alive and had flown home to Britain with her children.

She collapsed when informed, today that he had been found.

Inspector Dan Moses

Famed Sportsman Dies

INSPECTOR DAN MOSES

One of Victoria's most famous sportsmen, Inspector Daniel David Moses of the RCMP died in Veterans' hospital yesterday following an illness of three months.

A native of Victoria, "Dan" Moses was 53 years of age.

The RCMP will give him a military funeral tomorrow, the cortege leaving Hayward's funeral home at 2 p.m. and proceeding to Holy Trinity church, Patricia Bay.

Service will be conducted at 3 p.m. by Rev. Roy Melville and burial will be in the cemetery at the churchyard.

Best known as an oarsman, Inspector Moses was captain of the James Bay Athletic Association for many years. He returned to the organization as coach last year.

In the heyday of JBAA prior to the Second World War, he rowed in shells which captured the senior doubles and senior fours championships of the North Pacific Association of Amateur Oarsmen.

He was also famed as an English rugby player.

Inspector Moses joined the B.C. provincial police May 10, 1937, serving as a constable, corporal, sub-inspector and inspector.

He transferred to the RCMP when it took over the B.C. organization and took charge of the interior economy branch here. The next year he went to Ottawa headquarters as a sub-inspector and was promoted there to inspector in 1953, when he took charge of the accounts branch.

Final move saw him return to Victoria in 1955 to take over the interior economy branch for the entire province.

Survivors include his widow, Madge, at home, 324 Dallas; a daughter, Mrs. Loree Gillard, Nanaimo, and two sisters, Grace, North Saanich, and Mrs. Irene Frederette, 331 Michigan.

JUNIOR DERBY: Largest entry yet is expected for the annual Victoria-Saanich Inlet Anglers Association junior salmon derby which will be held June 26. Assuring its success is the $1,000 donation received from the B.C. Cement Co.

The derby committee will use the money wisely in the effort to bring out a record entry. Almost half of it will be spent in picking up the tab for rental boats. The committee has reserved 73 boats from inlet boathouses and will pay for their use in the junior derby. Senior anglers will be asked to take a minimum of two youngsters when using the rental boats.

No final decision has been made on prizes as yet but it is expected that the two main prizes, one for boys and the other for girls, will be bicycles and that the rest of the prizes will be fishing tackle. There will probably be two second prizes and the rest of the prizes will be hidden weight prizes.

The derby will start at 6 a.m. and end at 1 p.m. with the prize presentation scheduled for the Anchorage Boathouse at 2.30 p.m. Anyone not more than 16 years of age on derby day is eligible to compete. Cliff Heglin is chairman of the committee, which includes Eric Palliser, Stan Williams and Paul Joncas. It expects to have plans completed by next week.

* * *

SUGGESTIONS: The one unfortunate thing about junior fishing derbies is that over-eager adults often cheat, breaking derby rules by helping youngsters boat big salmon on heavy tackle which the youngsters are unable to handle by themselves. This year, the committee intends to ease rules on the amount of aid which can be given in an effort to keep the honest from suffering.

This, however, takes something away from the derby. One can be reasonably certain now that it will be an adult who does most of the catching when a big salmon is involved and that there will be more wire lines and planers used than ever.

It's a tough problem to combat but one way might be to offer no trophies for the biggest salmon, make all prizes of equal value and to make them all hidden weight prizes. Every youngster who weighs in a salmon would have the same chance of being a prize-winner. There would be no advantage in bringing out the heavy tackle needed to catch the big ones in Saanich inlet. In fact, it would be possible to ban the use of wire lines and planers and enable the youngsters to use tackle they can handle. It would also equalize things for the youngsters under 12 years of age, who are now forced to compete against 16 year-olds in what is the derby's unfairest rule.

And if this takes a certain element of competition away from the derby, so much the better. Taking the kids out fishing is a great idea but it is somewhat spoiled by the importance attached to being the winner instead of on fishing for the sake of fishing.

SALMON REPORT: You couldn't prove it by what happened to Cliff Heglin and the writer Wednesday morning but Saanich inlet boathouses report that fishing is "good" and "improved" . . . the Anchorage Boathouse reports that there appears to be a new run of small springs and Hall's Boathouse reports from the Goldstream end that "almost all boats out mornings and afternoons are catching salmon. . . . J. Lewis caught a 14-pounder off the Stone House on a Strip-Teaser Wednesday and H. B. Tate, also using a Strip-Teaser, had a 10½-pounder, taken off Chesterfield Rock . . . last night, O. Koller, who has been having good success, boated a 28-pounder while fishing in the Narrows with a Strip-Teaser and Bill Kirk, another angler who doesn't ever seem to miss, arrived back at Hall's at 1 yesterday afternoon with six springs for his party. They, too, were taken on Strip-Teasers . . . coho are reported being caught near Willis Point in the Brentwood area.

There has also been rewarding fishing in Oak Bay waters, topped by that beautiful 46½-pounder brought in Tuesday evening by Joan Colbert. Anyone wanting to try can get all the information needed at the Oak Bay Boathouse.

Moving north, Jackson Young of Wilcuma Lodge reports that springs are being taken in Cowichan Bay with the best fishing area at the moment at the foot of Mt. Tzouhalem. Jackson didn't have any luck last night but he watched another angler boat two fair-sized springs.

And for anyone who doesn't mind the drive, there is good fishing at Qualicum Beach . . . Mike Gorick of the Qualicum Beach Boathouse says that bucktail flies are good in the mornings and that Tom Mack spoons, fished with a bit of weight, are producing when things get quiet on the surface . . . the coho are averaging about four pounds and some are more than six . . . and there are also some springs in the area. Harold Badger and Hugh McDonald boated five springs Tuesday, using a Lucky Louie plug and a No. 5 Wonder spoon.

A LONG WAY: A reader has asked about the distance record for a casting rod and for fly-casting. I don't know whether the records have been broken but have the figures as of a year ago. And they're somewhat surprising.

Primo Livenais holds, or held, the record for casting. He tossed a four-ounce weight the incredible distance of 810 feet, five inches with a Winston surf-casting rod. He doesn't need a boat. He could fish Oak Bay waters from the Oak Bay Beach Hotel.

Jack Crossfield has, or had, the fly-casting record. Also using the famed Winston rod, he laid a fly down 194 feet from where he was standing.

All of the above, of course, means little. It's accuracy more than distance which counts when it comes to casting.

Accurate Rocks Win As Hamilton Stops 33

NEW WESTMINSTER—Victoria Shamrocks deepened the impression that the Inter-City Lacrosse League is a two-team affair this year by handing the New Westminster Salmonbellies a 14-6 thumping here Thursday night.

Result moved the second-place Shamrocks six points ahead of the third-place Vancouver [illegible] points ahead of the last-place New Westminster club.

Salmonbellies outshot the Shamrocks, 39-29, but they had trouble with goalie Don Hamilton and their own weak defence, which permitted the Islanders to get in close and cash in on almost 50 per cent of their shots.

Hamilton stopped 14 of 16 shots in the first two quarters as Rocks took an 8-2 lead, stood up well in the third quarter stopping 10 of 13, and missed only once in 10 shots in the final quarter.

Harry Irwin and defenceman Bill Bamford led the Victoria attack. Irwin had his best night of the season as he scored three goals and set up another. Bamford, the Shamrocks' leading point-getter, added to his steadily-growing point total with two goals and two assists. Bamford now has 39 points, third best total in the league.

Mel Davison and Al Davies also had two goals for the winners while Jack Northup and Bert Bertoia had a goal and two assists each.

Rookie Denny Thune was the only New Westminster player to beat Hamilton more than once. He scored two goals.

[illegible] ties, but two were majors, to Bamford and Ivan Stewart for activating sudden dislike.

Lane Shuffles Cards Again; Deals Schoendienst to Giants

It took Frank Lane, baseball's answer to David Harum, a little while to get started when he moved to the National League but, once in motion, Lane didn't take long to revamp the St. Louis Cardinals.

Yesterday, Lane pulled his biggest trade yet in the few months he has been in the National League, sending four players to the New York Giants and getting four in return. Included in the trade were such stars as second-baseman Red Schoendienst and shortstop Alvin Dark.

CARDS GET LOCKMAN

Schoendienst went to the Giants along with catcher Bill Sarni, rookie outfielder Jackie Brandt and southpaw Dick Littlefield. In return, the Cardinals added Dark, first-baseman Whitey Lockman, southpaw Don Liddle and catcher Ray Katt to their roster.

The Giants were convinced they got the better of the trade but Lane was more than happy with what his club received as he braved the wrath of St. Louis fans by trading away Schoendienst, almost as much of an institution in St. Louis as Stan Musial.

Lane explained that his club needed help at shortstop and first-base and that to get it, he had to give something away.

Dark will go to shortstop, where he is expected to steady the brilliant sophomore star at third base, Ken Boyer, and rookie Don Blasingame, who will move to second base, his usual position. Lockman will take over at first base, releasing hard-hitting Wally Moon for outfield duty. Katt will understudy Hal Smith, who had won the first-string job from Sarni, behind the plate.

The Giants were happiest at the acquisition of Brandt, a young speedster who appears to have a bright future. Brandt is hitting .286. He was rookie of the year in the International League last season.

Schoendienst will take over at second base, where the Giants have been weak for several years. Daryl Spencer will probably shift from the keystone sack to either third-base or shortstop, depending on how well rookie Ed Bressoud makes out at shortstop. Bressoud was recalled from Minneapolis.

ADDED PUNCH

Sarni gives the Giants added punch behind the plate. Neither Katt nor Wes Westrum had been doing any hitting and the Giants wanted a better-hitting catcher.

It was the 12th trade, involving 32 players, made by Lane since he joined the Cardinal organization.

There were other personnel shifts yesterday, but of a minor nature. The Giants called up southpaw Jim Constable in addition to Bressoud and sent pitchers Ramon Monzant and Joe Margoneri to Minneapolis.

ROBINSON MOVES

New York Yankees sent veteran first-baseman Eddie Robinson to Kansas City Athletics, receiving in return an undisclosed amount of cash as well as outfielder Bill Renna and pitcher Ed Burtschy, both of whom were optioned to Richmond in the International League.

The Yanks also called up outfielder Norm Siebern from Denver and returned shortstop Billy Hunter to the active list.

Report Says Royals Sign Hal Laycoe

If a report printed in a Vancouver newspaper yesterday is correct, Hal Laycoe, veteran National Hockey League defenceman, won't be the next coach of the Victoria Cougars as suspected.

The report stated that Laycoe has been signed as coach and general manager of the New Westminster Royals, now the sole property of Fred Hume, mayor of Vancouver.

An earlier eastern report said that Laycoe was considering offers from Victoria and Quebec Aces as well as New Westminster and it was believed at the time that Victoria, which has a working agreement with Boston Bruins, Laycoe's club, would be the logical choice.

Fred Hutchinson, general-manager of the Cougars, is not back after attending the joint meeting of professional hockey leagues and was not available for comment last night.

Next game, tonight: Farmer Construction at Deming.

Farmer Construction, rallying for seven runs in the fifth inning, tripped Vancouver White Spots, 11-8, at Royal Athletic park last night to gain a share of second place in the Northwestern International Baseball League.

It was the first game of a busy three-day schedule for Ed Ash's Construction squad which travels to Deming for a game tonight, then comes back to Athletic park Saturday for a twin bill with the undefeated Bellingham Bells.

LAST GAME

Ron Lund, the Courtenay righthander who was expected to be one of the mainstays of Farmers' pitching staff, made his farewell appearance last night and collected his second win, although he wasn't around at the finish.

Lund pitched six innings, striking out six, before he gave way to Paul Beck. Beck lasted until the ninth, when Ash pulled him for Bill Garner when Vancouver got a runner on first.

A three-run double by Jim Harford and a two-run homer by Norm Curran featured the fifth-inning uprising, in which Farmers converted a 1-5 deficit to an 8-5 lead.

Two more runs in the sixth inning were needed as White Spots came up with three runs in the eighth inning to get back in the game.

Curran hit three for four for Farmers, adding two singles to his home run. Farmers played errorless ball.

However O. Koller, who qualified for the main fish-off last week, took the lead in the race for weekly prizes by boating a 28-pound, three-ounce salmon.

Mickey Finds Range Again As Yanks Whip White Sox

New York Yankees, with Mickey Mantle again finding the home-run range after a mild slump, increased their American League lead yesterday as only six clubs saw action in the major leagues.

With Bob Grim pitching a neat four-hitter, the Yanks made it seven out of eight over Chicago White Sox with a 5-1 victory which put them five games ahead of Chicago and Cleveland Indians.

Mantle hit a key double in the three-run third inning which decided it, then added his 22nd home run later in the game. He is now one game ahead of the pace set by Babe Ruth when he set the record of 60 home runs.

CHICAGO OUTBURST

The game was featured by a wild Chicago outburst against umpire Charlie Berry, who motioned to Grim to pitch when Dave Philley was arguing about a called strike, then called another strike which appeared to be high and outside.

Pandemonium broke out. Manager Marty Marion stormed out to help Philley berate Berry but only Philley was tossed out of the game. He tossed his hat high in the air and players on the Chicago bench heaved out hats, balls and towels in violent protest.

The Indians, meanwhile, continued to slide back as they took a 10-9 defeat from Boston Red Sox, who were led by Jackie Jensen and Dick Gernert as they routed Bob Lemon.

In the National League, the only game saw Milwaukee Braves make it two in a row over New York Giants, 5-2. Only Willie Mays, who had a home run, two singles and a walk for a perfect night, bothered Warren Spahn as the veteran southpaw made his record 4-6.

Inter-City Basketball May Return

Senior "A" men's basketball may return to Victoria next winter.

Pat Horgan announced last night that he had been invited by Vancouver hoop officials to enter a Victoria team in a proposed seven-club inter-city league.

The proposed league would operate over a short season and get under way in January.

Horgan said he thought things could be worked out to form a Victoria team and that he will call a meeting of players and city officials next week before making a final decision.

Gorge Edges Students On Wiebe's Two-Hitter

Big Ah Wiebe, who has been known more for his booming bat than for his pitching prowess in the Senior "A" Men's Softball League this season, proved last night that he can still be a stingy man on the mound.

Wiebe set Chinese Students down on two hits at Central park last night as Gorge Hotel squeezed past the Students, 1-0, in what proved to be the best game of the season.

The redheaded righthander had a no-hit game going until the sixth, when Jeff Worrall smashed a single off his leg and Dennis Beaulac popped one over the infield.

Gorge got their run in the third inning, on two singles and a pair of errors.

Emery, who recorded his fifth straight victory, struck out 18 batters to tie a league record. He had a streak of seven strikeouts in a row, and whiffed the side in the second, fourth, fifth, sixth and seventh innings.

Four of his strikeouts came in the second inning, when catcher George Webb dropped a third strike for an error, which allowed the batter to reach first base. Emery then fanned the next batter.

Bob Rosburg Grabs Two-Stroke Lead As Tempers Flare in Opening Round

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (UP)—Burly Bob Rosburg's baseball grip batted out a two-under-par 34-34—68 for a two-stroke, first-round lead in the U.S. Open golf championship Thursday as the weather and tempers blazed in a day replete with hits, runs and errors.

There were plenty of hits over rolling, sun-baked Oak Hill Country Club as Rosburg, the 29-year-old Californian who almost didn't show up because his game was so poor, was the only man to break par. British open king Peter Thomson, his closest rival, was the only man at even par 70.

There were several runs in what shaped up as a "rhubarb open" as irate professionals charged at the U.S. Golf Association with accusations of "stupid officiating" and Cary Middlecoff and Jimmy Demaret scored Henry Cotton for turning in a wrong card.

And errors accounted for two-stroke penalties against PGA champion Doug Ford, Masters champion Jack Burke and young Ga.

Cotton insisted he had a five and after two hours of deliberation, the rules committee said they would take the word of the English golfer and his scorer. His score was allowed to stand at 74 but he could have been disqualified for signing an improper card had the committee ruled against him.

And so could Burke, who signed a card crediting him with a 75 when he actually had a 76. He had refused to check at the 18th hole, saying he was "too tired."

RULE OF LENIENCY

Such an offence normally brings automatic suspension but the committee, invoking a rule of leniency for the first time, refused to erase Burke completely. Instead it assessed him two strokes, giving him a 78.

Ford shot 35-34-69 but he was penalized two strokes because he dropped a provisional ball behind a water hazard on the 10th hole and then removing it from play and resuming play with his original ball when it was found. He starts Friday's round with a 71.

Inman drew his two-stroke penalty for reporting 10 minutes late to the starting tee.

Then, as additional aggravation, former champion Julius Boros waited in the heat on the 18th fairway for 35 minutes until a truck, behind which he had sliced his drive, could be moved. And the crowd of 12,450 was dissapointed as Ben Hogan, who had called the course "easy," shot a 37-35-72 and perennial hopeful Sam Snead chopped out a 40-35-75.

Rudy Horvath of Windsor, Ont., and amateur Gerald Magee of Toronto, scored 37-36-73, and 38-39-77, respectively.

Middlecoff and Demaret refused to sign Cotton's card because they said that he scored himself a five on the par four 17th when he should have had six. They asserted he lipped a three foot putt for a four and then jabbed it backhanded and missed again.

One irate pro who asked that his name be withheld said the USGA official on the 11th-hole lateral hazard made those who hit into the water go across the hazard and play from under trees instead of playing from the spot where the ball went in the water.

"I came damned close to picking him up and throwing him in the water," he growled.

There could be, he intimated, a pro boycott of the Open if the pros were pushed too far.

Ford's penalty left him three shots back of Rosburg, tied at 71 with Middlecoff, Julius Boros, Ed Furgol, Jay Hebert, Errie Ball and Wesley Ellis.

Stacked at 72 with Hogan were Arnold Palmer, Dave Douglas, Dutch Harrison, Ted Kroll, Al Brosch, Fred Haas, Billy Maxwell and amateurs Billy Hyndman and Dr. Frank Taylor.

Former PGA champion Walter Burkemo and Pete Cooper were at 73, with Tommy Bolt, Porky Oliver, Bo Wininger and amateur champion Harvie Ward at 74. Snead's companions at 75 included Shelley Mayfield, Gene Littler, Art Wall, Buck White, Jackie Burke, amateur Billy Joe Patton and Demaret.

Dick Varley To Seek Second Win Saturday

Dick Varley, last year's Vancouver Island champion, and Dick Willoughby, the hottest wheel jockey at the track this season, are expected to wage a driving duel Saturday night in the stock-car meet at Western Speedway.

Varley, 23-year-old Victoria mechanic who began his racing career four years ago at the Shearing Speedway, will be looking for his second successive main-event victory and Willoughby will be seeking his fourth win in five starts.

Competition is expected to be tough for the two local drivers. Jack Rumley of Chemainus will return to action Saturday night with a completely rebuilt stocker after mangling his old one in a spectacular accident two weeks ago. He will lead a strong up-Island contingent of eight drivers, including Ray Pottinger, Hank Neilson, Red Burke and Harry Roberts.

Dave Cooper, plagued by motor toruble most of the year, is expected to be a strong contender with his new Ford. Cooper, one of the top drivers on the Island last year, started the season with a GMC, but has had difficulty in making the slow heats thus far.

Among other Victoria drivers entered are Gerry Sylvester, Lamont Brooks and Digger O'Dell.

Time trials start at 7:30 p.m.

Grain Prices

WINNIPEG (CP)—Most prices were firm in dull trade on the Winnipeg grain exchange. Light offerings showed in most cases and were influenced by dry conditions over the Prairies.

A small export business appeared in barley and rye with parcel lots of barley going to the U.K. and small quantities of rye going to the Continent.

Overnight export loadings to Canadian wheat included: 1,000,000 bushels to the United Kingdom, 750,000 to Poland, 355,000 to Soviet Russia, 275,000 to Belgium, 130,000 to South Africa, 105,000 to Norway 20,000 to Germany, 20,000 to Switzerland, and 20,000 to Hong Kong.

Total, 762,000 Tons

Aluminum Output Boosted

By HARRY YOUNG
Colonist Business Editor

Aluminum Company of Canada has increased its smelting capacity by 52,000 tons a year by the start of production this month of two new furnace lines.

One of these, Kitimat No. 4, will have a rated capacity of 30,000 tons, and will bring the Kitimat output on a 150,500 tons yearly basis into production last Tuesday.

In the previous week, a new line started at Isle Maligne, Quebec with a capacity of 22,000 tons a year.

No. 5 line at Kitimat is due for completion by December, and will be responsible for another 30,000 tons of aluminum a year, and will raise the total Alcan production at its five smelters to 762,000 tons a year, compared with 650,000 tons at the beginning of 1956.

Duke's Australia Visit Informal, Free and Easy

SYDNEY (CP)—The Duke of Edinburgh's four-week Olympic tour of Australia will be on an informal, "free and easy" basis.

If successful the tour may be the forerunner of a series of similar royal visits to Commonwealth countries.

The duke will officially open the Olympic Games in Melbourne Thursday, Nov. 22. He will spend four full days, another afternoon and a night at the Games.

He will have two days in Sydney, three days in New Guinea, and four in the Northern Territory.

He will visit the national capital, Canberra, twice and will inspect naval establishments at Jervis Bay and Nowra.

The itinerary for the visit will leave the duke much more free time than the royal visit in 1954. It will be a combined official tour and holiday.

The duke will have several days [illegible] walks and drives and will spend other "free" days at country ranches, one near Canberra and the other near Melbourne.

The duke will return to Britain in the royal yacht Britannia after paying short visits to New Zealand and Norfolk Island.

On occasion of his 35th birthday, Duke of Edinburgh poses for official portrait. He is wearing uniform of Sir Kings Royal Irish Hussars of which he is honorary colonel. Sandringham House is the home of the reigning monarch, the grandfather of the present Duke. Queen Elizabeth succeeded to the throne on the death of her father King George VI. Above the row of medals is the Star of the Order of the Garter.

Atom Tests No Menace Health Minister Says

OTTAWA (CP)—There is no reason whatever the Canadian government can see to believe that the health of [illegible] Canadians or people of any other country has been affected by nuclear tests to the point of causing concern, Health Minister Martin said Thursday.

In a Commons reply to Stanley Knowles (CCF—Winnipeg North Centre), he said the health departments [illegible] assessments to determine the effect of radioactivity levels produced by such tests.

Mr. Knowles, referring to results of scientific studies of the radiation problem released this week in London and Washington, asked

Mr. Martin said Canada has agreed with the United States, United Kingdom and France that [illegible] nuclear tests would be desirable if it could be done without endangering the West's security.

Vogee Hearing

Inquiry Erupts As Chair Rules Testimony Out

Inquiry into the demotion of Mount Newton High school principal Arnold Vogee erupted momentarily yesterday as chairman Kenneth Murphy ruled out of the record some testimony of a witness.

Preceding events prior to passage of the last March a group of citizens Mr Vogee and the school board building committee met at Mount Newton to begin a tour of schools.

Mr. Vogee "tried to outline what should be done" at Mount Newton but "trustees showed little interest."

"We resented not [illegible] second" from a high school Mr Vogee said. Handing out a free document of Mr. Vogee was "rude."

"I saw antipathy [illegible]" Mr Vogee said.

He alleged that school inspector Dr. Harold Johns was being used by the school board "as a means to an end" involving Mr. Vogee.

ANGRY INTERRUPTION

Mr. Murphy interrupted angrily to state the inquiry did not want to hear such a type of evidence. "As far as I am concerned that will not be part of the record."

The inquiry is hearing an appeal by Mr. Vogee from the school board's demotion decision. The board based its decision on a report by Dr. Johns and said there was a lack of administration leadership and discipline.

Arguments by counsel Saturday will conclude the hearing of more than 14 days of evidence. School board counsel is J. Alan Baker. Victor Dryer is counsel for Mr. Vogee.

The board of reference hearing the appeal will consider the evidence next week and submit its report to the council of public instruction, which will advise both parties of a decision.

Pinned Driver May Survive Freight Crash

DUNCAN—An 18-year-old driver of a lumber carrier regained consciousness yesterday in King's Daughters' Hospital after suffering a skull fracture when the carrier he was driving was struck by a freight train in Koksilah Wednesday morning.

Ian Cudlipp, 18, of Shawnigan Lake was pinned beneath the carrier after it had been thrown some distance from the point of impact. Besides a basal fracture of the skull, he received a small fracture of the left ankle. Dr. W. D. McAuley said yesterday the injured youth was in good condition.

Fireman of the freight train, Dermot Moore, said he saw the carrier stop at the crossing from Duncan's mill in Koksilah, then proceed on across the track. The carrier, valued at $11,000, was written off as a total loss.

A giant lumber stacker had to be used to lift the overturned carrier off Cudlipp's body.

City Approves Giving Away $20,825 To Charities, Societies, Organizations

Grants totalling $20,825 for 12 Victoria organizations, plus an additional $2,500 for the Victoria Symphony Society if the provincial government will make it legal, were approved by city council yesterday.

Ald. Robert Macmillan opposed unsuccessfully the basis on which the grants were apportioned.

The city should encourage the idea of a united appeal by making a substantial grant to the Community Chest, he contended, and non-charitable organizations should not share in the "up to $25,000" that the ratepayers had authorized council to give to charitable organizations. The Community Chest got $2,000.

With Ald. Macmillan dissenting in every vote, council approved these grants:

Art Gallery of Greater Victoria $1,500; YWCA $2,000; YMCA $3,000; [illegible] Foundation $2,000; Greater Victoria Celebrations Association, $3,000; Aged Women's Home, $4,150; Community Chest, $2,000; Boy Scouts Association, $200; Navy League of Canada, $1,250; Girl Guides' Association, $300; Legion of Frontiersmen, $200; and Victoria City Police Revolver Club, $[illegible].

NEED APPROVAL

[illegible] approved by provincial cabinet [illegible] cannot make grants under the present Municipal Act to cultural organizations that do not [illegible].

Ald. Macmillan said the reason a plebiscite had been held two or three years ago was that the public was "fed up to the teeth with being dunned to death by all kinds of charitable organizations."

Since the ratepayers had authorized council to give up to $25,000 annually to charitable organizations, he asserted the only organizations that could properly share the $25,000 set aside by council for grants this year were the charitable organizations.

He said allowing non-charitable organizations to share the $25,000 was tantamount to forcing the charitable organizations "out on the street to ask the public for funds."

"SPECIAL"

[illegible] grant as well as [illegible] $2,500.

Ald. Macmillan found no seconder for a motion to increase the Community Chest grant by $10,000.

tax-exempt. Actually they weren't, but making grants approximately equal to taxes the city was in effect exempting them.

Ald. Macmillan found no seconder for a motion to increase the Community Chest grant by $10,000.

Ruttan New Judge

Appointment of Victoria lawyer John G. Ruttan to the Supreme Court of B.C. was announced yesterday by the justice department in Ottawa.

At the age of 43, Mr. Ruttan will be the youngest member of the 12-man court.

"I am very honored," he said yesterday.

Mr. Ruttan was admitted to the B.C. bar on Jan. 1, 1937 and has been practicing law ever since in Victoria except for a five-year stint in the Royal Navy during the war.

He was a member of the firm of Straith, Ruttan and Davidson.

PAST PRESIDENT

Immediate past president of the Victoria Bar Association, Mr. Ruttan is also vice-president of the Family and Children's Service and vice-president of the Greater Victoria Arts Centre.

He came to Victoria at the age of six from Winnipeg and was educated at Oak Bay high school, Victoria College and University of B.C.

Later he attended Oxford University in England, where he took his law degrees, receiving his bachelor and master's degrees as well as bachelor of civil law.

Mr. Ruttan played rugby in Victoria [illegible] for the Oak Bay club and later for Victoria Crimson Tide.

WAS COUNCILLOR

He is a past member of Oak Bay council.

Mr. Ruttan lives with his wife and four children at 3505 Upper Terrace.

The justice department also announced the appointment of Thomas W. Brown, Q.C. of Prince Rupert as judge of the B.C. Supreme Court.

Leave Them Alone

Let laburnum seeds alone—they're poison. That's the warning wise Hennie Van Schaik, 4, of 916 Johnson, gave Dianne Martenson, 8, of [illegible] Prior, and all other Victoria youngsters yesterday. Royal Jubilee Hospital disclosed that "several" small children have received stomach pump treatment in the last few days after eating the seeds, which look like garden peas. They'll be a danger for another two months. (Colonist photo by Bud Kinsman.)

Council To Request Six-Day Store Week

City council voted unanimously yesterday to seek immediate provincial cabinet action to allow possibly 80 stores to remain open a full six days a week.

Mayor Percy [illegible] will head a delegation to ask the cabinet to pass an [illegible] council adding a number of classifications of stores to those already exempt from weekly half-holiday provisions.

Able to remain open Wednesday afternoons if the cabinet takes the requested action will be apparel stores, antique, chinaware and glassware stores, department stores, and shops for the sale of woolens, variety goods, leather goods, staples, dry goods, silverware, watches, and jewelry, in addition to food, drug and confectionery stores that can stay open now.

Council made its decision after hearing a brief from the Six-Day Shopping Week Committee of Victoria. The brief said the committee represented [illegible] 20 licensed city businesses [illegible] a week [illegible] the brief said had been endorsed by city council [illegible] other local organizations.

QUOTES CPR

The brief quoted travel surveys to show how much tourist business Victoria was losing through Wednesday afternoon closing. Figures provided by Capt. O. J. Williams, manager of the CPR's B.C. Coast Steamships Service, showed that the percentage of Victoria-Seattle passengers carried [illegible] Wednesdays and climbed to 17.7 again Thursdays.

The committee said a six-day shopping week would remove the advantage Vancouver now holds over Victoria in catering to tourists, that employees' rights would be fully protected, that no store would be forced to stay open six days a week and that the six-day week had wide support.

Ald. Mrs. Lois Wilson had some [illegible] to add before council [illegible] Veterans' Hospital present hospital for domiciliary [illegible].

"The people who spend 80 per cent of the money in the stores are [illegible] women," she said, "and women are [illegible] in Vancouver, yes. I would be very glad to see them [illegible] open six days a week."

Two gates said it was [illegible] patients.

Kinsmen May Pour Some Bingo Profits Into Gorge Projects

Victoria Kinsmen Club members decided last night to investigate spending some of their roughly $16,000 bingo money on improvement of Gorge park recreational facilities.

"We haven't decided to spend any money yet, but this is the one of several things we've been considering that we'll look into first," said president Vic Lea.

Ald. Geoffrey Edgelow, chairman of the Gorge Waterway agency for the area, said Improvement Association had proposed some time ago that the Kinsmen provide bathing facilities at the park.

Mr. Lea said the club would meet with Mr. Edgelow [illegible] how far we would go. He said, "We don't know [illegible] have authorized to put up $[illegible] if we want."

The Victoria [illegible] Parks Comm[illegible] probably be the first [illegible] project for the area to spend money on restoration of the proposed some time ago that park.

The Kinsmen Club made roughly $16,000 on its two giant bingo contests here, but Mr. Lea would not say how much money they considered spending.

"There are numerous possibilities there. We don't know [illegible] of corrupt conduct.

[illegible] Assistant Commissioner Thomas Andrew Hoey, [illegible] minister for mines, Thursday night resigned his position after a royal commission on lands in a report issued Thursday stated that he was [illegible] of corrupt conduct.

Swim Leaves Town

A different approach to swimming tricky Juan de Fuca Strait will be used by Toronto marathon swimmer Ted Simmons tomorrow morning.

Coach Steve Mellors said Ted will leave Sheringham point, 18 miles west of Race Rocks at 5 a.m. and head on a "secret" course to Ediz hook, near Port Angeles.

He is expected to cross the 20.7 mile gap of turbulent water in nine hours.

Mellors reports a new type greasing process will be used comprising vaseline lanolin and capsulin in varying proportions over different parts of the body.

Of the 45 strait attempts in the past this is the first not commencing within the boundaries of Esquimalt or Victoria on the north or from Ediz hook on the south.

New Hospital Here Sought by Legion

A new hospital in Victoria [illegible] "illogical and uneconomic to use [illegible] where patients could live on an the superior facilities" of the Veterans' Hospital, present hospital for domiciliary [illegible] purpose, was pointed out. A separate domiciliary [illegible] would reduce costs.

CHEK-TV Studies Saanich Tower Site

Studios, transmitter and tower of [illegible] TV may be located in Saanich, rather than on the Smith's Hill area in Victoria, The Daily Colonist learned yesterday.

David M. Armstrong, president of radio station CKDA and the television company, declined to make any statement yesterday on the site of the channel 6 operation.

However it was learned that Mr. Armstrong had planned to apply to city council at its meeting yesterday for three lots on Smith's Hill, but the letter of application was not sent.

Construction was considered more likely on Derby road in Saanich, near the site of the CKDA transmitter. Change of mind on the part of the TV organizers was thought to be due to renewed opposition of residents in the Smith's Hill area.

This opposition has been blamed for a delay in the start of construction. CHEK-TV is not expected to get on the air for some weeks after Sept. 1, originally scheduled [illegible].

City council gave tentative approval in April to sale of the Jotson Smith's Hill but 153 residents said construction there would cause depreciation of property values and Mr. Armstrong withdrew his application.

TV officials have made no secret of the fact that the city site is the one which gives best coverage of southern Vancouver Island.

Answers Readers' Requests Fish for One; Coffee for 50

It's slightly nerve-wracking when the requests pile up so let's try this morning to cope with some of them. Before beginning however, may I be permitted to say that questions are only answered in this restricted space if considered of general interest. Otherwise they are answered, unfortunately, mail as soon as time permits.

And if you think this job is a sinecure you have another think coming. Well, let's go! One asks for the proportions for coffee for fifty. Another in the same mail asks how to cook fish for one. Well, as so often said in this space, topics not much use in living unless we can help each other. All we can do is our best.

COFFEE

(to serve 50)

One pound coffee, 1 teaspoon salt, ¼ teaspoon mustard (it brings out the flavor), 1 cup cold water, 2½ gallons boiling water. Tie the coffee loosely in a cheesecloth bag and in it put the salt and mustard. Throw in the cold water for good measure. Plunge the whole thing into the prescribed amount of boiling water. Cover closely and keep at boiling point for 15 minutes, stirring frequently. While I would hate to be the hostess at a party of that size the foregoing works.

BAKED FISH

(serves one)

Buy 1 fillet of fish, prefer cod, halibut but because it's in season now's. Listen to this.

Do not attempt to fry it or broil it. Just put it in a saucepan and add one of those little baby cans of rice and cheese. Let it simmer in the saucepan for about ¼ hour and you have a very nice main course, just for one.

Who comes next? Oh yes, I have your letter right here. Recipes for the use of crab fish which, incidentally, is good right now. A local authority tells me it could not be better.

CRAB FLAKE SALAD

(about six servings)

Two and a half cups crab meat, 2 tablespoons lemon juice, 2 teaspoons finely grated onion, 1 cup chopped celery, ½ cup mayonnaise, ¾ teaspoon salt.

Flake the crabmeat and sprinkle it with the lemon juice. Mix grated onion, celery, mayonnaise and salt. Fold in the crabmeat, rather carefully, in other words do not break it up unnecessarily small. Serve in a bowl garnished with salad greens or, if preferred, in individual lettuce cups.

The other day I read something funny from the Dominion government—at least it struck one as somewhat funny. If you live in coastal areas and are purchasing live crabs, allow one or two crabs per person according to the of ours, cannot get off that lightly. Here's a delightful little recipe for this particular variety of shellfish

CRAB SCALLOP

(About six servings)

Two cups crabmeat, 2 tablespoons vinegar, 4 tablespoons butter or margarine, 4 tablespoons flour, 2 cups milk, ½ teaspoon salt, ¼ teaspoon pepper, ½ cup buttered bread crumbs. Sprinkle crabmeat with the vinegar and let stand for 10 minutes. Melt fat and blend in the flour. Add milk gradually and cook this sauce until thickened. Add seasonings and crab and turn into buttered casserole or butter shell into which you have divided it. Top with the buttered crumbs and bake in a moderate oven, 350 degrees, for 15 minutes.

A LOVELIER YOU

By Mary Sue Miller

FULL-TIME LOVELINESS. Little brother overhearing a date compliment big sister on her hair, piped, "Yeah, but you should see it in curlers."

If we girls would have our intimates think us full-time lovelies we'd better give up that grease and crimpers routine. Actually it is unnecessary. Even at bedtime, you need not drop with a skincare treatment to reap its benefits. Skin reacts to the merest fuss. Pin curls can be prettied by pastel bermudaed caps or net. And if you brush-groom eyebrows and apply a tinted chapstick, you retire a lovely and arise more so.

Young Canadian Horsemen Win Olympic Bronze Medal

STOCKHOLM (AP) — A trio of young Canadian horsemen resplendent in their brilliant red hunting jackets earned a bronze medal Thursday by finishing a surprising third in the Three-Day Team Trials at the 1956 equestrian olympics.

What was even more surprising was the fact that the Canadians who turned the trick—Brian Herbinson, 27, John Rumble, 22, and Jeremy Elder, 22, all of Toronto—were competing in their first Olympics. Only one of them had any kind of international competition to speak of.

Britain won the team championship and gold medal while Sweden captured the individual title before visiting Queen Elizabeth and Sweden's King Gustaf Adolf, who sat in the royal box.

The Canadians finished behind Britain and Germany in the team standing and placed three men among the first 20 individually.

COMPARATIVELY NEW

For Canada, competing in the equestrian Olympics is something comparatively new. Canada for many years has sent teams to the big horseshows in the United States and Canada which have international jumping events. But it was not until 1952 when Canada decided to send an equestrian team to the Olympics.

At Helsinki four years ago the Canadians did poorly and the team finished far back. Stewart Treveranus of Toronto and Larry McGuinness, a Toronto brewery owner, finished 22nd and 29th respectively.

Thursday, Rumble finished 16th, Elder 19th and Herbinson 20th.

Britain's Lt.-Col. Frank Weldon of the Royal Artillery, A. E. Hill riding the Queen's horse Country man III, and Maj. Laurence Rook won the team crown with a total of 355.48 penalty points.

Germany was second with 475.91 and Canada third with 572.7. Australia took fourth place with 620.46.

Bright Days A Big Help

QUEBEC (CP) — Laughter and tears and a chance of tragedy are the experiences a woman has during the menopause, a noted Toronto woman doctor said Thursday.

"A happy day may seem to make life unbearable for a woman during that time of emotional instability," said Dr. Marion Hilliard, obstetrician and gynaecologist and retiring president of the Federation of Medical Women of Canada.

"A sunny day brightens the heart beyond all knowing. Laughter and tears are so close together."

Understanding affection and gaiety as well as preparation, were deeply needed to prevent harm during the delicate phase of "change of life."

Boy Lures Girl In Seal World

NEW YORK (UP) — An obscure scientist in an obscure place has made the observation that among seals it is the male who gives with the perfume and it is the female who is lured thereby.

Irresistibly lured, mind you. Furthermore, the female knows her man among a million by his characteristic perfume, can pick up the bouquet at sea for considerable distances, and is guided by it to his loving side.

This observation by J. E. Hamilton, a scientist stationed in the Falkland Islands in the south Atlantic off Argentina, promises to clear up the age-old mystery of how the females of fur seals and the southern sea lions unfailingly find their true mates.

The depth of the mystery is in the fact that males always arrive on the stony beaches of south Atlantic islands, which are the breeding grounds of seals, at least a month in advance of females.

They wallow ashore, take up territories from which they exclude all other males —by fierce battling if necessary—and soon the beach is alive with them, each one in his allotted space.

When the females start arriving, (all heavy with child as the result of the previous breeding season,) and wallow up onto the crowded beach, you'd think confusion and carnage would reign. But there is no confusion nor carnage at all.

Quickly each male is surrounded by his harem. That is what always happens, year after year. The question is, how in the world do the seals and sea lions manage it?

Hamilton reported from Stanley in the Falklands that his research began when he noticed that after handling the skins of recently killed males, his unwashed hands had "a general, not unpleasant seal smell."

After washing his hands, "there remained a definite perfume rather resembling the odor emitted by the common civet when it is pleasurably excited."

Course for Hiroshima Girls

How to care for a small baby, Western fashion, was one of many nursing home techniques which Hiroshima maidens studied at New York Red Cross chapter during their stay there. Seventeen of the girls, victims of Hiroshima bombing, were treated for removal of scars. Nine returned to Japan June 12.—(CPC)

Social Work Graduates Vital Need

Canada's supply of trained social workers is sufficient to meet only 30 per cent of the country's established needs, Rev. Shaun Govenlock of Montreal said in Victoria yesterday.

Father Govenlock, president of the Canadian Association of Social Workers and assistant director of the school of social work of the University of Montreal said welfare authorities could see no easy solution to the problem.

The need itself was growing at a rate that outstripped the foreseeable capacity of social work schools to produce workers.

But the in-service training program of British Columbia's welfare branch was the "subject of much study and interest among other groups across Canada" as a means of helping to make up the difference between supply and demand.

The association, he said, is making an effort through all its branches to recruit future social workers through the schools and is preparing for a national study of the problem. A Dominion-wide conference will be held in September on the subject.

WESTERN TOUR

Father Govenlock visited Victoria and met local welfare officials as part of a tour of western Canada preceding the annual meetings of the Canadian Association of Social Workers and Canadian Welfare Council in Edmonton from Monday to Friday next week.

Miss Amy Leigh, British Columbia's assistant director of welfare, will give a paper at the conference on the B.C. program of staff training.

Miss Leigh will be one of a number of B.C. delegates who will include William Hooson, city welfare administrator; David E. Woodsworth, Family and Children's Service director; Miss Jean Rodger and Miss Hattie Staghall, both of the Family and Children's Service; Miss Bessie Snider of the provincial branch and W. R. Bone, who heads the federal family allowances and old age security office in Victoria.

B.C. Credit Union Parley May Have 500 Delegates

Some 500 delegates, representing 345 organizations and 125,000 members, will gather at the Sirocco Club June 20 to 23 for the 18th provincial credit union convention.

Miss Mae Campbell, president Victoria Chapter credit unions, will be chairman.

A branch of the credit union movement, the Credit Union and Co-operative Health Service Society, will hold its 20th annual meeting Wednesday under chairmanship of Howard Hunter, Vancouver. The society is second only to MSA as a non-profit prepaid medical care plan, according to a spokesman.

A social evening will be held in the Sirocco Club Wednesday evening.

Annual meeting of the B.C. Central Credit Union will be held Thursday. Prof. Leslie Wong of the University of British Columbia commerce department, will be speaker. Don Bentley, president, will conduct the meeting.

The delegates will be taken on a trip to the Butchart Gardens Thursday evening.

The B.C. Credit Union League, an affiliation of all the organizations in the province and the parent service and educational body of the movement, holds its sessions Friday and Saturday.

Jerry Voorhis, former California congressman, author and lecturer, executive secretary of the Cooperative Health Federation of America, will be featured at the 10th anniversary celebrations of the CU & C Friday evening. Also speaking will be Mervin Wehrmann, president Credit Union National, from Baltimore, Maryland.

A wind-up banquet at the Victoria Badminton Club will be held Saturday.

In the 18 years since the credit union movement started in B.C., $138,000,000 has been loaned members.

Victoria has some 25,000 members of 27 credit unions.

Convention conveners include Michael Rogers, billeting; Harry Sanderson, entertainment; Robert Tennant, transportation; Mrs. J. E. McNaught, publicity; Oliver Blandy, reception; and Robert Little, secretary.

Hairy Monsters Hunted

Expedition of two has set out from Lumby, B.C., to track down live specimens of the "Abominable Snowman." Reports of the giant, hairy wild men have recurred in the province for decades. Most pin the mountain monsters down to the Chehalis range, where they are referred to locally by Indians as "Sasquatch." —(CPC)

Railway Report Denied

Railways Minister Ralph Chetwynd yesterday denied a report that the government plans to extend the Pacific Great Eastern Railway to Alaska.

[illegible] parties are surveying two possible routes to ascertain whether such a scheme is feasible.

Location parties have been ordered to check routes north from Fort St. John and also along the Rocky Mountain Trench.

CHECK ORDERED

In addition officials from the bureau of economics have been asked to check whether business would warrant the extension.

A Vancouver report quoted Mr. Chetwynd as saying a start on the scheme could be expected "easily within 10 years."

But the minister said the question of such an extension would not be decided upon until full reports have been made by the location parties.

Cafeteria-Style Ships

$50 European Trips Foreseen

NEW YORK (AP)—The possibility of the average wage earner being able to take $50 trips to Europe on huge cafeteria-style ships was envisioned today by a New York hotel man.

H. B. Cantor, president of the Dixie Hotel, said he has plans to build two 90,000-ton ships, each capable of carrying 6,000 passengers, costing $100,000,000 each.

Cantor told newspaper men financing has been made possible through recent amendments to the U.S. Maritime Financing Act.

He said there was something cockeyed about the present fare sets.

"I believe this is due to luxuries that travellers don't want.

"Each of his proposed ships would have a cafeteria with 1,500 seats as well as automatic food dispensaries in this fashion.

"There will be two swimming and transportation only. Cantor estimated meals would cost about $1 for tourist services, but no pheasdence the ships could operate profitably.

There will be a skating rink, two theatres, a concert hall and facilities for sports.

The $50 fare would cover berth fares, meals and transportation only. Cantor estimated meals would cost about $1 for tourist services, but no pheasants' eyes, he expressed confidence, and no caviar," said Cantor.

Wage Increases Mark New Pact

A wage boost and adjustments increases in paid annual holidays and a contributory health insurance benefit plan are features of a one-year contract concluded by Evans Coleman & Johnson Bros. Ltd. and its employees union.

A 10-cent hourly wage increase, retroactive to April 1, and certain other adjustments from five cents to nine cents an hour are included in the agreement with Canadian Brotherhood of Railway Employees and other transport workers.

Rates will include $1.61 for labourers, $1.70 to $1.80 for drivers, $1.87 to $1.92 for mechanics and $2.10 for welders.

Annual paid holidays will be three weeks after 15 years service. A 50-50 contributory health insurance plan paying $40 a week during periods of illness replaces the present $15 a week benefit plan.

Overtime rates will include time and one-half for work from 4:30 to 7:30 p.m. and double time from then until 7 a.m. Seniority, safety grievance and other clauses are also amended.

Ex-Victorian Gets Top Post

The bidding:

West	North	East	South

3 ♡	Pass	Pass	3 ♠
Pass	4 ♠	All Pass

If you were West what card would you lead?

The king of hearts is the automatic play. But you are anxious to get partner on an ace that he will lead a club for you to trump. Would you risk underleading your ace of hearts hoping that East would be void? Would you underlead the ace a second time?

It happens that if you led a small heart at the second trick East would trump that. Last would trump Bid. South's bidding would have been the same with:

♠ K J 10 7 ♡ 5 ◇ 10 9 6 ♣ Q 10 8 6 3 2

If he held that hand lead the ♡ K and a low heart at the second trick would let him discard a club.

West made the play that avoided all risk. He opened the queen of hearts. When everyone followed he continued by leading the king, knowing that West had begun with the ace-king-queen. This unusual sequence of leads made East stop and think. If he had been void of hearts he'd have ruffed the ♡ Q. Therefore West must have wanted him to take the trick as cheaply as possible consequently East trumped the second heart and returned a club. West ruffed and later scored a diamond trick to stop the game.

Sinatra Romancing Anew

By SHEILAH GRAHAM

HOLLYWOOD (NANA)—Frank Sinatra, who gets around is getting around Carmen Sevilla, star of Paramount's "Flamenco," now in Madrid.

Which reminds me: Don Siegel drove 150 miles from Madrid to Toledo to see for locations, but it was raining so hard he couldn't get out of his car. Even worse than California rain, he grumbled.

Macdonald Carey is buying a farm in Bucks County, Penn., for his family of six children and wife Betty. But I can't figure when they will live on it, coming up for Mac are 39 half-hour telefilms on "The Young Doctor Chris ..." [illegible] Jean Hersholt ... Mac ... series.

Sterling Hayden is putting his new boat to good use making a picture from the novel, "The Far Wanderer," with most of it to be shot on the craft. Merle Oberon guested on the British "What's My Line?" and everyone guessed she was Greer Garson.

Tony Curtis and Janet Leigh have a date in Rome one year from now. We see both Tabbies in love with a taste exclusive of Rome. Tony screamed on the set of "Mister Cory" at Universal International.

It's time that 20th Century-Fox wants Marilyn Monroe for "The Jean Harlow Story."

MERLE OBERON

Now all they have to do is talk her into doing it and that won't be easy. Marilyn plans a long vacation after "The Sleeping Prince," and isn't interested in doing another picture until late next summer. She also has to approve the script.

Kirk Douglas, with his boys at a ball game, was [illegible] when a lady fan gushed, "Oh, you're that marvelous acrobat." She meant Burt Lancaster in "Trapeze." "But at least I can pantomime," said Kirk. Apropos of ex-wife Diana's recent marriage, it's nice to report that she and her husband and Kirk and his wife, Anne, are very chummy.

Pennant-Flying Yachts

Colorful Rendezvous To Open Sail Classic

Mayor Will Inspect Inner Harbor Rally

A "rendezvous of pennants 25 yachts, all flying colorful international code flags, will pack the inner harbor Friday evening, June 22, just before the 136-mile Swiftsure ocean racing classic to be held June 23 and 24.

CPR ships in harbor and the Empress Hotel will also be decorated. Jack Gann of the Royal Victoria Yacht Club said yesterday.

The yachts will be inspected by Mayor Percy Scurrah, while yachtsman Humphrey Golby comments over a loudspeaker system to the public on shore.

Sea chanties sung by the Meistersingers on the decks of the S.S. Bonner Black Dog will be broadcast.

Royal Canadian Sea Cadet Corps Rainbow Division will perform a sunset ceremony on the lawn of the legislative buildings.

Victoria Kilts clown band will open the show at 7:30 p.m.

The race itself starts from Rounding ledge and finishes just outside the harbor breakwater.

Assisting in operation of the race will be an Avro Can-Dec reporter and Coast Guard vessel.

Three RCN Pacific command ships will also assist. HMCS Porte de la Reine gate vessel will act as starting boat and HMS St. James Ra. and Fortune minesweepers will serve as guard boats during the long run.

A new entry in the race is Elmer Palmer's Gometra, from Vancouver, which will be skippered by Ned Ashe of Victoria, and have a crew of Ken MacLaren and Roy Murdock, both of Victoria.

A former winner, the Totem from Seattle, owned by Henry Kotsene, will participate.

Other new entries include the Gussy, of Seattle, owned by Col. Sanders, the May Bower of Vancouver, and the Bluenose III of Vancouver, a participant in the race for the past couple of years, owned by Commander Robert Wallace.

Many of the yachts will stay in Victoria for the combined Pacific Coast Yachting Association and Pacific International Association regatta July 1 to 6.

Gentle, But Oh So Tough!

MONTREAL (CP)—Late night calm patrons who have to be escorted off the premises are being treated with more finesse these days.

That's because judo expert Rene Lalonde gave lessons in self-defense to about 30 members of the waiters' association last winter. The trav-a-trotters have a daytime sports program sponsored by a brewery.

Lalonde, 25, said in an interview the course "concentrates on arm-twisting and strangulation." He explained the secret of successful arm-twisting is to hold the arm by the funnybone. Strangulation is the technical term for arm pressure around the neck.

"Gentle pressure will make a person go quietly. Really strong pressure stops the flow of blood to the two main arteries of the neck and the person passes out. Unless he is revived quickly he will die."

The former Canadian brown belt champion and Montreal black belt champ used to practice judo during the day and work in the city's largest night club at night. This year he opened his own school.

He was taught self-defense to the RCMP constables for the last two years.

Island Blacked Out

Power Shortage Unlikely

Slight Damage to John Hart Penstocks Fixed Soon

Cause of Pipe Break Mystery to Engineers

B.C. Power Commission experts said yesterday it will take 10 days to repair damage to penstocks at the John Hart hydro development at Campbell river which caused a 50-minute blackout in most parts of Vancouver Island late Wednesday.

The plant will be forced to operate on two-thirds capacity until the damage can be repaired.

However, officials told The Daily Colonist, there will be sufficient power generated both at the John Hart development and the Puntledge development to ensure a sufficient supply of electricity to meet Vancouver Island needs at this time of year.

Damage to the wooden penstocks was estimated at only "a few thousand dollars" by Arthur Lash, B.C. Power Commission engineer who made an inspection at the plant yesterday.

The trouble occurred when one of the penstocks burst, releasing a torrent of water which undermined a second penstock.

NOT A BIG JOB

"It's not a very big job," said Mr. Lash.

He laughed at a suggestion in another newspaper that the damage might be as high as $50,000.

Meanwhile it was learned that Bill Pullman, engineer for H. G. Acres and Company of Niagara Falls, consulting engineers who designed the project, will fly here from the east today.

Mr. Pullman was resident engineer at Campbell river from 1947 to 1953, when the first stage of the development was being built. He will investigate the trouble.

Commission officials are at a loss to explain the cause of the mishap.

"It could be any one of a combination of factors," said a spokesman. "But the big thing is that the load can be carried and there will be no problem of meeting the power demand at this time of the year."

Until the repairs are made the plant will generate 80,000 kilowatts instead of the normal 120,000.

No damage was done inside the massive plant.

There was a lot of mud washed down but it all collected outside the plant," said Mr. Lash.

FEW STAVES

He said the repair job "only consists of replacing a few wooden staves in the penstock."

Some 60 feet of the piping was damaged.

Arthur Price, plant superintendent, put a special crew of workmen aboard on the job from the time the break occurred Wednesday night until late yesterday making temporary repairs.

Court Warns:

Work or: Get Off Island!

NANAIMO—An option of a $5 fine and $5 costs or one day in jail was given to an 18-year-old youth who walked into a Nanaimo hotel Wednesday evening, helped himself to an unregistered room, undressed and went to bed.

John Albert Rose of Surrey, recently released from Oakalla, pleaded guilty to a charge of vagrancy.

Police told Magistrate Lionel Beevor-Potts that Rose was discovered at 1:45 a.m. yesterday by the hotel manager. Besides helping himself to the room, the accused also took the manager's jacket. Rose was not charged with taking the jacket.

Asked by the magistrate what he had been doing since his release from the prison farm, Rose replied that he had been working in the woods on the mainland. He said he had found the work "too hard so I quit."

The magistrate told Rose that many other ex-prisoners worked in the woods and did not find it too hard. "I don't think you like work. If you are not prepared to work you had better get off the island fast," he said.

Island Peril

Experts Team Up To Fight Budworm

Industry and the federal and provincial governments have banded together to fight a serious pest on 1,600 acres of hemlock on northern Vancouver Island.

An experimental aerial spray program has been launched against the black-headed budworm, the larvae of which feed on the new shoots of hemlock.

If they make too many meals off the foliage for three or more years, the tops of the tree may be killed. Prolonged infestation may kill the trees off completely.

Experimental project is being carried out between the B.C. Forest service, several major lumber companies and the forest age nature department's science service.

ANSWER SOUGHT

It is designed to find out which stages of the insect are most easily killed by insecticides and the minimum amount of spray per acre which will do the job. This information will be used in a future spray campaign on the pest.

Sixty acres plots were sprayed Wednesday with one pound and one-half pound packages of DDT per acre in the Port Hardy-Port McNeil area. The areas are still small. When they are full grown or nearly grown in late June the spray tests will be repeated.

Actual spray operations will be carried out June 25 in the same general area.

Pollution Debate Slated

Duncan city council will discuss charges that sewage from the city is being dumped into the Cowichan river and is polluting the water supply of the five Quamichan bands of Indians.

The question will be raised at the next council meeting, probably next week.

Duncan officials yesterday declined comment, although city clerk Gordon Berry said: "It would appear the information The Colonist got is not too reliable."

He was referring to the story in yesterday's editions of The Daily Colonist in which officials of the Indian Affairs and Welfare Society said sewage was spreading fear of epidemic and death among the Indians.

The charge that sewage is a menace to health of the Indians was supported by Dr. Edward Best, medical health officer for the Central Vancouver Island Health Unit.

Judges Announced

Judges have been chosen for the Victoria Horticultural Society's summer show in the Crystal Garden June 22 and 23.

W. E. A. Barclay and Arthur Sanders will judge the roses, Mrs. E. W. Carey and Dr. H. T. Gussow the sweet peas, begonias and miscellaneous summer flowers. F. W. White, fruit and vegetables, and Miss K. F. Fyfe and Mrs. W. Clark the blue ribbon flower arrangement.

The artistic flower arrangement judged best by popular vote, will win for its creator a sterling silver rose bowl donated by Henry Birks and Sons Ltd.

An engraved silver medal for the novice attaining the most points in the rose classes has been donated by George Hop-wraith.

Catalogues and prize list may be obtained by phoning A. C. Elusion 1490 Dallas road 5-4675.

Legion Asks British Help For Veterans

VANCOUVER (CP) — The Canadian Legion will ask the British government to give more assistance to elderly imperial veterans now in Canada who are "in desperate circumstances."

The veterans are those receiving retired pay or long service pensions from the British forces.

Delegates at the legion convention here were told the veterans are living under financial hardship because of the devaluation of the pound and differences in living costs between Britain and Canada.

Amalgamation Answer: NO

Has Oak Bay Any Moral Obligations?

Future Debts of Saanich Cited

By R. O. MARRION
Colonist City Hall Reporter

Is Oak Bay obliged morally to become part of a unified city?

If not, what advantages would amalgamation offer Oak Bay?

Those were two of the most prominent questions being asked yesterday, following presentation to the senior and junior Chambers of Commerce of the amalgamation report of the Citizens' Research Institute of Canada.

The answers from most of Oak Bay's elected representatives, it was immediately apparent, would be "no" and "none," making Oak Bay perhaps the chief field for missionary work by [illegible] minded in coming weeks or months.

That missionary work will be done as a result of the report seemed assured.

Hector Crombie, managing secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, said the senior and junior chambers, having spent $5,000 on securing the report as a service to the community, did not intend to let it die.

A joint meeting will be called as soon as members have had time to digest the report, he said, and a program of continued study and publicity for it will be mapped out.

After reading main details of the report yesterday, Reeve Fred Norris of Oak Bay was as adamantly opposed as ever to amalgamation.

The report, he said, was "remarkable for what it didn't say."

It didn't suggest any outstanding financial advantage to Oak Bay, and was vague in its reference to benefits, the reeve contended.

Oak Bay, he added, was under no moral obligation to take on the future debts of Saanich.

Oak Bay, Esquimalt and Victoria had paid their own way in their development.

Coun. Charles Mann also remained "definitely opposed" to amalgamation.

"It wouldn't be practical. Oak Bay would lose its individuality and would be the loser all round," he said.

Coun. George Murdoch said he had given amalgamation a lot of study over a period of years had always been opposed to it and still was.

[illegible] like it," he said.

And he added that he couldn't agree that there was any moral obligation for Oak Bay to unite with the other municipalities.

The only other Oak Bay councillor who could be reached, Coun. James Matthy, said the rest of council would be against amalgamation but that he thought it would bear a lot of looking into.

"We can gain a lot by joining forces," he said.

[illegible] made clear in its report that it believed each of the municipalities had a moral obligation to unite.

Hell Bomb Hit Wrong Island Tester Claims

Bad Aim Imperils Lives, Blinds Two, Report Adds

HONOLULU (UP)—An air force bombardier was seven miles off target with an air-dropped hydrogen bomb at Bikini May 21 and test personnel live in constant fear of being killed by another such miscue in the future, the Honolulu Star-Bulletin reported yesterday.

The newspaper quoted "a technician based on Eniwetok" who is visiting Honolulu.

The technician declared that at least two persons were permanently blinded by the May 21 blast.

The test was the first "public" showing of the H-bomb and was widely reported by a group of selected newsmen who witnessed it from the deck of the USS Mt. McKinley.

KEPT SECRET

The miscalculation, if true, was carefully kept secret from the newsmen who were informed at the time that everything went off exactly as planned.

United press correspondent Joseph L. Myler, who produced a graphic word picture of the awesome blast, called the test "a beautiful job of precise planning and expert execution."

The paper quoted the informant as saying test personnel "live in constant apprehension" that another such miscalculation might drop an H-bomb into the sea.

We are afraid of a radioactive tidal wave if they should miss and drop one of the bombs in the ocean," he said. "This last one was a close call."

The technician told the Star Bulletin that the target island of Namu was illuminated for the drop, but that the bomb went off over another small island seven miles away. He said a number of vital instruments had been "knocked out" by the miscalculation.

The unidentified source said task force authorities had assured base personnel that they would be evacuated within plenty of time in the event of a dangerous mistake "but we don't really believe them."

HAD TO LOOK

He said the two blinded men "couldn't resist the temptation to watch the bomb go off." He said their eyes were all right at first, but by dinner time "they couldn't see their hands in front of their faces."

He said doctors had pronounced them permanently blinded.

'None Hit Right On The Button'

WASHINGTON (UP)—Government officials refused to confirm or deny reports that H-bombers missed the target by seven miles.

One official indicated the bomb may have been somewhat off the mark, but said the test "accomplished what was wanted."

"None hit right on the button," he said.

$65,000 Bail Set For Drug 'Head'

VANCOUVER (CP) — Record bail of $65,000 was set in police court here Friday for Daniel Red Place, described as the chief of a Vancouver drug syndicate.

He is charged with conspiring to traffic in narcotics between Jan. 1 1955 and June 14 this year, and was remanded to June 22.

City prosecutor Stewart McMorran asked for $50,000 bail and told magistrate Oscar Orr: "This man holds a considerably higher position in the hierarchy" than two other men recently arrested on trafficking charges. "Bail for them was set at $30,000 each."

"He is not an addict and it will be alleged that he is head of the syndicate in Vancouver."

Harry Frank and John Petrie were arrested a week ago on a charge of conspiring to traffic in narcotics. Bail was set at $20,000.

Place, also known as Stewart Thompson, was arrested Thursday. The charge links him with William Royal Parker, 32, and Joseph M. Stanton, 30, arrested some time ago in possession of $80,000 worth of heroin and sentenced to two and 10 years imprisonment respectively.

Hats Irk Laing

PRINCE RUPERT, B.C. (CP) — Liberal leader Arthur Laing charged Friday night that workmen ripped up the track on a 42 [illegible] section of the Pacific Great Eastern Railway after Railways Minister Ralph Chetwynd made a bet when the first train rolled over the line last Monday.

Mr. Laing, speaking to an audience of 100 persons, said "the great hat event" was "the silly act of a silly man."

Mr. Chetwynd laid bets worth $800 that the line would be completed on time although one of the contractors told him the deadline couldn't be met, Mr. Laing said.

HATS COLLECTED

"So the rails were laid and the train ran over them and Mr. Chetwynd collected his hats.

"The next day the track was pulled up and the workmen began dumping tons of rock to complete the roadbed."

Mr. Laing said this act of British Columbia's "expensive political circus" could cost the province "hundreds of thousands of dollars."

The Liberal leader said another contractor had told him that because the train ran over the line from Squamish, 42 miles south, to Vancouver, the contract could have been considered ended and all work done after that could be charged on a cost-plus basis.

Canada's first real aquarium in Vancouver's Stanley park was opened yesterday by Fisheries Minister James Sinclair. The modern aquarium, housing many varieties of marine creatures, was built with equal grants of $500,000 from federal provincial and civic governments.

Tabloid Editor Feared Seized By Drug Ring

VANCOUVER (BUP)—Managing editor Bill Bell of Tab, the sensational weekly Vancouver tabloid, was reported missing tonight and it was feared he might have run afoul of tentacles from the Vancouver drug syndicate he was seeking to expose.

Bell was reported missing as of 4 p.m., PDT. It was not known whether he actually disappeared at that time or had been missing since earlier in the day. He was known to have been at his desk in the Tab offices this morning.

SEARCH STARTED

A city-wide search for him was reported under way.

Bell was officially classified as missing when a Royal Canadian Mounted Police detail lost track of him. Tight-lipped officials would not comment, but it was believed the RCMP lost him at mid-day or during the early part of the afternoon in heavy downtown traffic.

The detail had been guarding Bell for the past several weeks, during which time the tabloid editor had been furnishing police with information about a major narcotics syndicate now being uncovered. Information from Bell recently was forwarded to British Columbia Attorney-General Robert Bonner.

Prime Minister Definite

No Abdication for Juliana Divorce Officially Denied

THE HAGUE (Reuters)—Prime Minister Willem Drees Friday night categorically denied that Queen Juliana is seeking a divorce, will abdicate or has caused a constitutional crisis through her association with a faith-healer.

He told a specially-convened press conference: "If the queen had at any time acted unconstitutionally the cabinet would have resigned."

It was the first time the premier himself had mentioned openly widespread reports that that queen and Prince Bernhard might split over the reputed influence of Greet Hofmans, 61-year-old faith healer, on the queen.

The prime minister read a statement to the press conference held in the palace which Juliana was given as a princess on her 21st birthday.

Asked whether the faith-healer had had "any influence on the queen," he said: "I do not know. All I can say is that the queen has at all times acted constitutionally."

He had a pile of British papers in front of him as he made his statement. Reading from one of them he quoted a headline: "The Dutch nation will be told officially tomorrow morning — royal marriage broken down."

He commented: "We know nothing about a divorce or a separation."

Speaking in English for the benefit of foreign correspondents, the prime minister quoted another foreign press report alleging that speeches made by Queen Juliana during her tour of the United States several years ago "ran contrary to NATO policy and the Dutch foreign minister's policy."

"There has never been a case of the queen not submitting speeches to ministers," he said. "I was present when those speeches were drawn up and the cabinet accepted full responsibility for them.

"I hope you will be convinced that as regards the political aspect there is no question of abdication nor any truth in reports of differences between the queen and her ministers."

Adventurous Newsmen Ride Over Stanley Falls

STANLEYVILLE, Belgian Congo (UP)—Seven American newsmen and a Danish guide rode over Stanley Falls on the Congo river in two native war canoes yesterday. They topped off the adventure with a race downriver to Stanleyville.

The winning pirogue was paddled by 40 natives, including two drummers who set the beat. The passengers included William Yates of the Chicago Tribune, Max Lerner of the New York Post, Constantine Kostich, color photographer, and Frank H. Bartholomew, president of the United Press.

The native rivermen in both war canoes were of the Wagenia tribe. The winning canoe, 45 feet long, was captained by Chief Ga Yu.

Stanley Falls are formed by a series of torrential rapids at the head of the Congo in the geometric heart of Africa, some 1,400 miles upriver.

The two dug-out canoes worked their way from opposite sides of the river to a rendezvous on a rock in midriver at the head of the falls. As soon as the crews were rested, the race began down some of the wildest water in the world.

The war canoes were a mile apart at times, although the finish of the race was decided by a few seconds.

RCAF Hiawathas Start Annual Race

PORTAGE LA PRAIRIE, Man. (CP) — Forty airmen left here early yesterday in 20 canoes in the RCAF's third annual Portage to Winnipeg canoe race on the Assiniboine river.

Five check points set up along the winding 102-mile river route will plot the progress of the competitors and also help the air force ensure the safety of the airmen.

Twenty of the entries are from Macdonald, 14 from Portage la Prairie and six from RCAF Winnipeg station. Last year's winner, Cpl. Gus Gustaffson of Macdonald, will defend his title. His canoe was the only one to finish last year.

Letter from Missing Frogman Dynamite

PARIS (AP)—A mysterious new twist in the case of missing British frogman Lionel Crabb turned up yesterday with disclosure by a retired Briton that Crabb had written him on the day he disappeared.

Crabb disappeared April 19, presumably while diving in Portsmouth harbor near the Soviet cruiser Ordzhonikidze which had brought Nikita Khrushchev and Nikolai Bulganin on their official visit to Britain.

Sir Francis Rose, who has made his home in Paris for a number of years, told a reporter the cryptic letter he received from Crabb said: "I'll be in clover the first of the month. I've sold my invention."

The letter, Sir Francis said, was postmarked Portsmouth and dated the day Crabb dropped from sight. Sir Francis had written Crabb who said he was an old friend, to ask for payment of a loan of 20 pounds.

Since receiving the letters, Sir [illegible] still alive.

Francis said, these inexplicable events have occurred:

1. After news of Crabb's disappearance was published, Sir Francis looked through his file to find the letter and turn it over to authorities, but the letter was gone.

2. A mutual friend in the British admiralty appeared in Paris with a check he said represented the debt Crabb owed Sir Francis. The friend expressed the opinion—without substantiation—that Crabb was a spy.

3. On May 12 Sir Francis' son Luis, 24, a Spanish citizen, was imprisoned by the French when he sought to have his visa renewed. Sir Francis said he has attempted through a French lawyer and through the Spanish ambassador, to determine why Luis has been imprisoned. The only thing he has been able to learn, Sir Francis said is that Luis is being held for breach of trust.

4. High French Communist officials have contested Sir Francis' claim that Crabb is dead or alive.

5. Sir Francis said he received a recent letter from Luis, now held in St. Quentin prison. Most of the letter was obliterated, but one sentence was legible: "Papa, please tell them everything you know."

Sir Francis claims he knows nothing more about the Crabb case and has no idea, personally, whether Crabb is dead or alive.

DOMINION Astrophysical Observatory wants to hire a university-trained stargazer for $3,180 a year—rising to the munificent sum of $3,780 a year.

This man, whose title is "assistant astrophysicist," must hold a bachelor's degree in astronomy, physics or mathematics.

For such a paltry wage, a young man has to put in several years of hard study and perhaps serve gasoline at a garage or sling hash at a hamburger stand at night to pay his way through university.

Regardless of what the enemies of education say, he must be a fairly bright citizen to get through his physics and mathematics courses at all.

If he is smart, diligent and devoted to his work, he can qualify for $3,180.

Another lad, who never finished high school or perhaps never started, can walk straight into a laboring job that pays $20 a day, or $5,200 a year. I don't suggest that all laborers get that amount, but I know of some who draw that and more, for swamping on a truck or heaving rocks around.

I don't grudge the laborer his $20 a day. Hard [illegible] are worth that much.

But I suggest that society has an oddly distorted sense of values when it pays an unskilled man 50 per cent more for carrying bags of cement than it pays a scientist for pursuing the secrets of the universe.

Six-Day Shopping Backers Determined To Press Case

Opinion of a government official that the B.C. cabinet can't do what Victoria wants it to does not stop the city from pressing for a six-day shopping week this summer.

An official of the municipal affairs department said yesterday that the six-day week for certain categories of stores in Victoria could not be permitted by order-in-council, but only by an amendment to the Shops Regulation and Weekly Holidays Act which would mean waiting until the next session of the Legislature.

A government legal expert, on the other hand, said that although he hadn't studied the question, it appeared six-day shopping proponents might have a point in their order-in-council suggestion.

How Canadian Should We Be?

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — How Canadian should Canada become?

Dr. Sidney Smith, president of the University of Toronto, in a presidential address Friday night to the Association of Canadian Clubs, answered his own [illegible]

"We should not get so Canadian that we fail in those international duties now incumbent on every free, wealthy and solvent nation. But we should get Canadian enough to take a Canadian point of view in all that affects our fellow Canadians be they on the next street, in the next province, or by the next ocean."

He said Canada cannot cut off outside investment but the ultimate economic control of its resources must remain in Canadian hands. Canada must not grow into a colony of the United States, even the U.S. would not like that.

Canadians were particularly fitted to make a fine contribution in the international field. Motormen Suspended As Sequel to Strike

NEW YORK (UPI)— Twenty-eight subway motormen were suspended and more than 100 others faced suspensions and possible dismissal today for their sudden work stoppage that turned New York city into a mammoth traffic jam.

Twenty-five of the suspended men were officers of the striking union which still seeks recognition as a bargaining agent. The other three were the motormen who first refused to run their trains.

The strike quickly spread throughout the city, leaving more than 1,000,000 riders stalled in the massive traffic jam during the hottest evening rush of the year.

Bumper to bumper traffic crawled at a snail's pace along express arteries. Bus lines were crammed and extra buses added to the stopping traffic.

Taxis were more in demand than on a rainy day. Bars in some sections did a thriving business crammed with persons who had given up trying to get home. Many persons walked across the Brooklyn bridge, took ferries and other improvised routes home.

One Person in 70 Out of Work Here

Only 1,620 persons, or 1/3 approximately one in every 70 is without work in Greater Victoria the national employment office said yesterday.

Number of unemployed persons fell this week to the lowest figure of the year, when the office said was 268 or a 0.6 average for mid-June in previous years. Total of unemployed men was 1,031, or 320 below the average.

Large number of vacancies has been created by the demand for younger, active workers and the need for qualified trades men in varied lines. Employers need draftsmen, graduate engineers and boilermakers and several other occupations are at the stage where sudden demand would make it difficult to locate suitable workers.

Demand for domestic workers is at a "particularly high level," the office said and the demand for stenographers, office clerks and waitresses has increased. Job situations for sales workers has also improved slightly.

A Challenge to Everyone

THE 30,000-word report of the Citizens' Research Institute on the need for civic union in the Greater Victoria area if this closely settled community of 115,000 people is to develop its real potential as the capital of British Columbia is a challenge to straight thinking on the subject at all administrative levels. As an unbiased review of the situation the report carries its own credentials. Its reasoned advice against federation on the metropolitan Toronto pattern brings conviction. The analyses of our four municipalities, and four of everything in an area four miles by seven, can hardly be set aside. Where the report leaves something to be desired is in its failure to crystalize the means by which civic union can be brought about, and in its misunderstanding of the weight of public opinion in that.

However as a basis for further study and a precursor to positive thinking on the issue, the report should prove invaluable. The challenge of a cohesive city of substantial population with newfound weight and influence in the affairs of British Columbia is not one to be overlooked. The report politely says this is the direct concern of the Province as much as it is the administrations of the multitude municipalities all of them fearful of wants and short of resources to cater to the overwhelming influx of new settlement. That challenge, we believe extends to everyone: to government at all levels, to the taxpayers, and to citizens in the designated area. Through concurrence they could bring civic union about voluntarily and with good will all round.

The Research Institute was plain spoken when it dealt with the choices before the combined community. They include the status quo, and stagnation; annexation applied from above, and unending contention; federation or co-partnership on the Toronto plan which already has revealed an eye for an eye and a tooth for a tooth pattern; or, its own choice of civic union. To this, perhaps there remains a fifth choice that could be added. Victoria, 90 per cent built and improved, and with the chief civic assets concerned, could simply ask the Provincial Legislature for a statute enabling it to unite voluntarily with one or more consenting municipal areas when it found them ready for a direct step forward to metropolitan status.

In avoiding discussion of the financial roots of the several municipalities the report was handicapped in depicting the gains and the losses, the benefits and the new problems, and the chances which metropolitan union would imply. This, unfortunately, remains the crux of the problem so far as public opinion is concerned. Many people, and we think it would now prove to be the majority, are tired of the fading parochial isolationist attitude. Were they given a chance to show this by referendum by statute before the Legislature by public discussion or by any other means, they would be the best and soundest warrant for this long needed forward step. As a metropolitan area the south-east part of Vancouver Island would become a new gem in Canada's diadem with an economic future as bright as that of the best.

By all tests however, the Citizens' Research Institute's report is a real contribution to the long debate and to both Senior and Junior Chambers of Commerce the community is indebted for a fine public-minded action.

Undignified Pique

ALL through the ugly pipeline debate and the Liberal government's repeated gagging of Parliament the Progressive Conservative members of the House of Commons reported themselves in a manner which added to neither the stature of Mr. Diefenbaker and his supporters. There was evidence of their constant efforts to head up the pipeline bull from those who do not like to see the Liberal government thwarted in anything, not even when it jettisons principle to get convenience, but throughout the long and nerve-wracking battle the Progressive Conservatives put up a manly fight to uphold the rules of the House and its tradition of free speech.

What a pity then that all of them, he what had the look of a precariously got plan, behaved like spoiled children when Mr. Speaker Beaudoin gave a receipt on the week for Prime Minister Holland of New Zealand. By absenting themselves from the room on the Progressive Conservatives displayed pettiness which ill accords with their standard performance in the House these last several years.

Diefenbaker might claim that the opposition had perhaps precluded any of the Colombo Mr. Beaudoin as Speaker. That is no excuse for carrying their feud with him to the length of showing disrespect for the institution of the speakership and rank discourtesy to the prime minister of a sister dominion with whom they had no quarrel. Mr. Holland as a person is likely to carry away with him nothing but a high impression of the calibre of Canadian parliamentarians.

Although Mr. Diefenbaker and his supporters gave various reasons for not attending the fact is that not one of them was a good reason to pay respect to Mr. Holland and a convalescence on which the parties will pride its own construction. It is not one redounding credit on the official opposition.

A Fair Deal

A GREAT deal of confusion invariably surrounds any discussion of civic grants. The plebiscite held on the subject a few years ago was motivated mainly by the question of allowances to cultural agencies and not to charitable groups. These latter are seldom in dispute, it is only the amounts that need deliberating in relation to the financial resources of the civic chest. The issue at the time of the plebiscite primarily concerned the former, however, and the ratepayers endorsed a maximum $25,000 annually obviously with this in mind. Any alderman elected now ignores the situation when the plebiscite was held.

The City Council is faced each year with a difficult proposition when it endeavors to allot the grants dispersed for 1956 this week among charitable, community service and cultural agencies. Each organization has strong claims for consideration for each does valuable work among the people of this community. The difficulty is not eased when the Community Chest applies for a grant as such and several of its separate agencies also apply in their own names. Under the circumstances the council has done the best it could with the money available and has endeavored to be fair to all. That some of them may not be fully satisfied is a normal circumstance.

It is unfortunate that the technicality of not having a permanent home building which few orchestras can have prevented an immediate grant to the symphony society. However the council has wisely shown its desire that the symphony should share alongside with others in the distribution of these grants by setting aside its proposals pending submission to the provincial order-in-council. This itself will be forthcoming government question and the symphony society thus treated on equal footing with the other agencies. All play their part in providing Victoria with the amenities needful in community life.

Letter from London

Welcome for Canadian VC's

By RICHARD L. THOMAS
(Daily Colonist Correspondent)

BRITISH Columbia House in London is having a rather bad headache at the moment. The agent-general Mr. W. A. McAdam wants to throw a party for the 32 British Columbian guests expected in Britain for the review of surviving VC winners in Hyde Park by the Queen. The trouble at present is that it seems impossible to fit it in during the official visit.

Starting off with the Thanksgiving service in St. Paul's Cathedral on June 25, the official engagements will provide for a tea party at the House of Commons at which Sir Alfred Bossom MP will be host. The following morning there will be the review by the Queen and on the afternoon of the 26th the garden party at Marlborough House at which the Queen Mother and other members of the Royal family will be present.

On June 27 there will be an excursion to Windsor followed by a reception in the Guildhall by the Lord Mayor of London with a visit to the BBC television studios for those who are not invited to the Guildhall. Next day the high commissioner for Canada has arranged a reception at Canada House and following that is a garden party on June 29 at Buckingham by the Canadian Women's Club.

A reception has also been arranged by the Canadian Legion staff and on Dominion Day the visiting VCs will attend the annual memorial service at Brookwood cemetery. The final night of the official visit is July 2 which will be celebrated by attending the Dominion Day dinner of the Canada Club.

* * *

The chief administrative assistant, Mr. Graeme Gibson is busily preparing the sterling equivalent of the $200 cheques which the BC government is making available to all the visitors for the review in addition to anything provided by the Canadian government and the hospitality laid on by the British government, and of course the traditional hospitality of BC House will be freely available.

It is perhaps doubly unfortunate that the agent-general should be without a secretary just at this time. Miss Lorna McDiarmid who has been at BC House for three years after a spell with the Canadian government immigration office in London has decided to return home to Vancouver and will be leaving Liverpool on June 22.

Dictatorial Role

It is possible to agree or disagree on controversial issues but when parliamentary procedure is ignored Canada is approaching a state where law and order is non existent.

Because the speaker's position is a transient government appointment the government is snared in its own trap as it is responsible for the speaker's behavior. The recent happenings emphasize any connection between speaker and an elected government as incompatible.

If the opposition attempts are curbed the government will have acted in stifling opposition and appeased the betoken intolerance to the minority and contrary discourse denied.

Alternatively to pursue a course designed to prevent a recurrence of the unhappy circumstances is to admit the pipeline debate was a fiasco seemingly pushed through to further political expediency.

One of the basic tenets of government is the opposition which gives thought to the disadvantages of an idea and whose presence probably shows us a better and more practicable course that people may benefit from positive action.

Opposition is a form of participation. This is reflected in our way of life and is instituted by a measure of freedom of speech and choice. Contrary to some belief is the government explores a measure of the views in responsive practices. It has placed itself in a defensive position where it is possible to try to influence and to eliminate disgruntling opinion.

It is up to Canadians to seek to maintain order and correct past misdemeanors through representative means. The alternative is chaos aptly demonstrated by recent events.

Women, Conscription

In today's Colonist (page 13) you cite opinions by various men on the question of conscription. Does it occur to you that perhaps some patriotic wee mothers would like to have our opinions counted, too? We raise these sons and then we have the gall to assume we have no interest in the matter. Surely we haven't seen fit to ask us for our opinion! For one star, I steel mine.

I am fed up with these masculine men running around the country trying to drum up another war. Relegate them to a museum with the other relics of the past and lets get on with the job! Lets make it a little better place for our children to grow up in.

Runs in the Family

I have just seen the picture of the twin grandfathers and twin granddaughters in today's (June 14) issue of the Colonist. In my own family there have been twins in each of the four generations, my maternal grandmother having given birth to four sets, my mother two consecutive sets, my sister has twin girls aged four, and my daughter twin son and daughter aged eight months.

It would be interesting to hear of other occurrences of twins running in the family.

Four Keys to Success Given School Graduates

Four keys to success were and physical health. "Good given to 230 young men and health can of course be ruined women last night members and curiously enough more of Victoria high school's largest by overplay than ever graduating class.

"The first key," said Dr. J. F. K. English, assistant deputy minister of education, "is industry and hard work. There has not yet been discovered a substitute for hard work."

Second key is good mental common sense and judgment, the third key to success, can be improved by learning from experience and mistakes.

"The final key might be called drive or impulse," Dr. English continued. "Most successful men have learned to make decisions quickly and act upon them. They have acquired the don't-now habit.

I am sure he told the graduates who are better prepared for the business of life than your parents where when they graduated.

"Much of what the critics say about modern education is so much utter nonsense" he said.

June Dancing Revue Well Costumed, Varied

By BERT BINNY

A large audience at Oak Bay Junior high school last night enjoyed the Katherine Costain School of Dancing June revue. Proceeds were for Oak Bay Playgrounds Association.

Outstanding among the numbers were Dianne Bouchard's "Tarantella" and Pamela [illegible] Dance performance as the "Thistle," the latter is an especially promising personality.

Bonnie Jane and Anda Lowman in Our Little Wooden Shoes" and Susan Payne with Barbara Roper ("French Minuet") were attractive while the brother and sister act "Jack and Jill", was neatly done by Mark and Doris Grant.

Well conceived and nicely executed was "The Dancing Lesson" with Dianne Bouchard as teacher and Carole Cosworth and Jennifer Costain as pupils. "Holiday Tap," Bonnie and Jean Harris, Susan Lort and [illegible] Mearns preceded a [illegible] and the [illegible] Dance was a new departure.

Oak Bay Denies Moral Obligation

A significant drawback of the present governmental structure, it said in the report, "is that residents of the organized municipalities and the unorganized areas make decidedly uneven financial contributions in relation to their equal responsibility for those municipal services which are of area-wide importance.

In the final analysis, the inhabitants of the metropolitan area have a common and equal interest in the powers vested in local government to foster and channel future growth in that area. Their contributions to the necessary municipal undertakings should surely be in relation to financial capacity rather than residence within artificial boundary lines which are long since outdated.

"Does a homeowner who lives on one side of a street in Saanich have any greater interest in or ultimate responsibility for the municipal costs of urban development in the civic centre of the district than his neighbor who happens to live across the street in the district of Oak Bay? The answer is surely obvious."

A problem of financial resources in a metropolitan area is more than a desirable and practical objective. It is a moral obligation.

The report referred obliquely to the moral obligation in another section dealing with the many [illegible] effects of divided jurisdiction in a metropolitan area.

"The individual municipality which has been fortunate enough to obtain more than its share of industrial or business properties or luxury type homes can thereby provide its own required services while escaping its just share of the tax load of the whole metropolitan area.

SELFISH REASON

Its citizens have a selfish reason for wishing to remain as a distinct entity, even though they may realize that in the long run divided jurisdiction presents serious handicap to sound municipal development.

Beyond the moral obligation to unite for the future good of the whole community and possible some improvement in civic services, the report appeared to offer Oak Bay little incentive to become part of a united city.

South should have doubled the last bid for a takeout. South would have bid clubs as both he might have done anyway. The South was embarrassed to bid his heart suit because he would have had a comp for 2 spades at this point and hadn't standing next to opponents but for a takeout clubs and as the cards lay, could have made 6 spades as easily as four. Instead South was left to play exceptionally well to make his contract of four spades.

West opened the king of hearts and continued the suit. [illegible]

Fleck, Burke, Demaret Eliminated

Thompson Leads Hogan by One Stroke

BY OSCAR FRALEY

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (UP)—Handsome young Peter Thompson, a Fairway failure in his one-two years ago, laughed at the specter of record-hungry Ben Hogan today and fired a one-under-par 34-35—69 to take the second-round lead in the [illegible] Open Golf Championship.

Two years ago the 28-year-old two-time British Open Champion played with Hogan at Baltusrol and failed to qualify for Saturday's two final rounds. Today they played three and one-half hours apart and for that period of time the mighty Hogan shooting for a record fifth Open Championship, clutched the lead with a two-under-par 68 for 140.

FOUR BIRDIES

Then young Peter made his [illegible] Calm and unperturbed despite the 95-degree heat he [illegible] the ball high, straight and handsome to more than equalize three bogeys with four handsome birdies for a two-round total of 139.

That put him one shot up on "the hawk" of the Fairway Highlands, striving mightily in one last gallop down the glory road to surpass the four wins he holds with the immortal Bobby Jones and ancient Willie Anderson.

I also moved him two shots ahead of three veterans and a [illegible] ster also [illegible] a big [illegible] Thompson [illegible] Ed Furgol of Tipton, Ia. [illegible] Burke Jimmy Demaret, Paul Runyan, former champion Lew Worsham, Chick Harbert and Johnny Revolta.

Knocked out [illegible] Fleck, the long-shot guy from Iowa who beat Hogan in last year's playoff. There were [illegible] a 74 for 146.

ROSBURG HAS TROUBLES

And there were bumps too for Bob Rosburg, the young Californian who grabbed the first round lead yesterday with a two-under-par 68. He was shaky [illegible] but his temper and his game [illegible] same pace as the others as he argued with spectators and "raged" at photographers as he shooting a 76 for 144.

Three strokes back of Thompson at 142 came Arnold Palmer, [illegible] champion [illegible] Boros with a 71 and Ted Kroll with a 70. Another stroke away were Bill Mayer, the former [illegible] champion and Dave Douglas, former amateur champion and [illegible] Del Ehrig of Upland, Calif. who both had 72's for 144. Then it was Rosburg at 146, four strokes off the pace, and Al Mengert, Jack Fleck and Ralph Johnston with a 69.

SNEAD SEVEN BACK

Sam Snead, [illegible] a 74 which put him [illegible] 148 along with Henry Cotton, Skee Mayfield, Doug Ford and several others. In the big [illegible] group at 147 were Bob Toski and Frank Stranahan with 73's and amateur champion Harvie Ward with a 74. Jimmy Demaret, [illegible] at 148 included amateur Jim Jolly Patton along with Porky Oliver, Dave Douglas and Dutch Harrison.

Two shots [illegible] at 149 [illegible] Arnold Palmer [illegible] Ed Furgol, Jack Burke and Johnny Bulla.

Thompson, the only [illegible] Australian who never loses his [illegible] easy stroke, started his one-over-par round which knocked [illegible] out of the lead when he [illegible] a two iron four feet [illegible] for birdie.

Young Peter popped a wedge four feet from the cup on the 571-yard fourth and [illegible] one down, two for a birdie four. He [illegible] three-inch putt on the [illegible] with an eight-foot sinker from Texas who [illegible] birdie putt. He [illegible] two of those years ago saw young Peter fail [illegible] to the card with [illegible] for five.

Bogeys on the seventh and eighth.

Starting back Thompson parred the 10th and they slipped momentarily on the 11th as he three-putted from 25 feet for a bogey. Once again he got it back as [illegible] the 600-yard 13th he walloped his third to the [illegible] home a [illegible] to the cup. From there he played the [illegible] squeaked [illegible] the rest of the way in for his 69 and a one-shot lead over the [illegible] Texan who [illegible] with an eight-foot sinker from [illegible] birdie putt. He [illegible] two of those years ago saw young Peter fail [illegible] to the card with [illegible] for five.

New building of Knox Presbyterian church, Sooke, right, being dedicated June 24, cost $25,000, compared to $800 paid for the historic old church, left, when it was built on the same site in 1898

Retiring Cleric To Officiate

Sooke Church Dedication Set

Rev. Robert Lattle retiring minister of Knox Presbyterian church, Sooke, will dedicate the church's new $25,000 building at 3 p.m. Sunday, June 24.

The imposing 150-seat structure is a striking contrast to the old church which was built on the same site in 1898 at a cost of only $800.

The historic old building has been sold as a masonic hall and moved about a quarter of a mile away.

Ministers of Victoria will assist in the new church's dedication.

Two stained glass windows given by Mrs. Charles Duncan in memory of a former minister, Rev. Dr. Sam Lattle and his wife, will be set apart by Rev. Dr. J. Lewis W. McLean of St. Andrew's Presbyterian church, Victoria.

Rev. T. H. McAllister of Gorge Presbyterian church will dedicate a communion set, choir gowns and a special plaque, the gifts of Alex Reid of Seattle.

Rev. F. G. Thompson, moderator of Presbytery of Victoria, will conduct the service.

Mr. Lattle, who has been minister of the Sooke church for six years, retires June 30 because of ill health.

The new church is 62 feet long by 38 feet wide, and is built of wood and stucco. The congregation moved into the basement, now the Sunday school, for Easter service, 1954, and into the upstairs on Christmas Day, 1955.

Alan W. Smith was in charge of construction and plans were drawn by A. V. Richardson Ltd. of Duncan.

Students at Milne's Landing High school constructed the pulpit. An electric organ will supply music.

"Five years ago we were just a mission church," noted church treasurer Charles Richardson. "Now we are a self supporting church and have a new building."

Through monthly fund-raising dances by congregation organizations and many hours of volunteer labor by members, the church has now a combined parsonage and hall $5,000 mortgage.

Chairman of the building committee was Robert Gibson and treasurer Mrs. Clive Watkins.

Message from the Minister

'Behold I Make All Things New'

By REV. J. N. CLARK
Elk Lake Baptist Church

In the Book of Revelation we read: He 'that sat upon the throne said 'Behold' I make all things new.

[illegible] the good news of God to most conclusions. The One is sure that human nature never changes, the fatalist claims that blind fate settles our destiny. The mechanical determinist states that mankind's reaction to circumstances is fixed and inevitable.

The promise "Behold I make all things new" underlines all such human theories. It boldly asserts that He who sits upon a throne is not a prisoner in His own universe but is at work. It declares that God's universe is not static but dynamic; that man's destiny is not governed by irresponsible forces but that he is free to help determine it; that a person's day does not merely react but responds.

For if God is to make all things new he will not do it by treating men as though they were robots but by encouraging them as free agents in His service.

Jesus did this with the words: The time is fulfilled, repent ye and believe the good news." Paul plainly indicated man's responsibility when he said that we are co-workers with God.

Canadian Clerics Due in Moscow

Guests of the Holy Synod of the Russian Orthodox Church, three United Church men will arrive in Moscow on Aug. 8 for a 10-day visit, the executive of the General Council of The United Church of Canada has announced.

The three churchmen are the Right Rev. George Dorey, moderator; Rev. Ernest E. Long, secretary of General Council; and Dr. W. Norman McLeod, of Toronto, prominent layman, chairman of the board of finance of the United Church.

The tour of the Canadian churchmen in Russia is a return visit in response to an invitation extended by the delegation of three Russian churchmen to Canada last November, when they were the guests of the United Church.

Dr. Long has written to Archbishop Nicolai, Metropolitan of the Russian Orthodox Church, suggesting that the Canadians would like to meet with leaders of Protestant Churches in Moscow, visit a theological academy, see parts of the Ukraine, visit a rural area and see something of the educational facilities of the country.

The Canadian delegation has expressed a desire to share in worship with Russian church-goers, and to discuss means of promoting "peace and justice."

CHICAGO (AP)—A sharp break in July soybeans toward the close upset the rest of the grain list on the board of trade.

July beans fell 10 cents, the daily limit, on a heavy liquidating move.

Wheat had an easier tone throughout the session on precautionary selling prior to anticipated large receipts of cash wheat at southwestern terminals Monday.

New crop corn and soybeans scored small gains early as expected rains failed to materialize in any volume in the midwest. They fell back toward the close when July soybeans broke.

Wheat closed ⅝-1⅜ lower, July 2.08¼-2.07⅞, corn ¼-1¼ lower, July 1.50⅝-¾, oats unchanged to ⅝ lower, July 66⅞-67; rye 2 to 2¼ lower, July 1.24 and soybeans ½-9½ lower, July 3.05-3.06.

N.Y. Closes Higher

NEW YORK (AP)—The prices nudged ahead Friday in the stock market in quiet trading.

It was the second session of subdued trading. Thursday the market took a small backward step, and Friday it did a little better than that on the higher side.

There wasn't much outstanding in the performance. Some chemicals did well, and a few cement issues made wide gains. Most major divisions were narrowly mixed.

William James Robinson, of Victoria, was remanded until Tuesday for committal to a higher court and trial on a bigamy charge.

A city police court preliminary hearing was completed yesterday. He is alleged to have married [illegible] East 21st., Vancouver, Sept. 28, 1928, and to have gone through a form of marriage with Sarah Lenfesty, 126 Douglas, Dec. 4, 1953.

Defence counsel is Joseph McKenna, QC.

Corpse Arteries Save Invalids

QUEBEC (CP)—Arteries from dead bodies are saving people from a life of invalidism and even from death, Dr. Josephus C. Luke of Montreal said at the annual meeting of the Canadian Medical Association Thursday.

The arteries, obtained from bodies shortly after death and placed in artery banks until required, are grafted into the legs of individuals who are suffering from arterial obstruction. These grafts carry the blood around the blocked area.

Probe of 'Legionary' Refused by Convention

VANCOUVER (CP)— A Quebec move to investigate the publication of The Legionary, official organ of the Canadian Legion, was lost here Friday when delegates to the 16th convention of the Dominion command voted it down.

[illegible] committee of legion members to seek professional editorial and adveritsing advice was submitted by the Quebec command. It also withdrew an earlier motion which said:

"It is apparent from available information that neither the officers nor the paid administrative staff of the Dominion command and-or The Legionary evidenced any good faith in carrying out the mandate . . . in respect to giving effect" to a decision to supply a French-language version of the magazine to any legion member requesting it.

Delegates voted to continue publication of a four-page French insert in the 40-page Legionary, whose 162,000 circulation is the seventh-largest in Canada.

STORMY ISSUE

Some delegates indicated they believe the Quebec motion was an attempt to seize control of the publication.

The stormy bilingual issue, introduced by Alex Solomon of Montreal, was the most controversial of the [illegible]

On other matters, delegates voted to:

Ask for the release of 16 Polish underground leaders held by Soviet Russia; seek a Canadian coast guard; petition the government to stop sending war materials to aggressor countries and make drugs deductible from income tax.

Post Hole Traps Boy

Richard Chase, 3116 Steele, has a healthy respect now for post holes.

The seven-year-old was removed from a four-foot-deep hole in which he became wedged Thursday night in the 2900 block Douglas, while playing. Police dug earth from around his knees to free Richard.

Polio Cases Now Lower

OTTAWA (CP)—No new cases of poliomyelitis were reported in Canada for the week ended June 9, the health department said Thursday.

Weekly telegraphic reports from the provinces showed 61 contracted polio this year, compared to 110 in the corresponding period last year. The average number of cases in 1951-55 was 140.

Four polio deaths were reported up to June 9, one less than on the corresponding date last year.

Dr. J. M. Thomas To Retire

Dr. J. M. Thomas, principal of Mount View high school for the past 17 years and once, as a young man, a teacher in the old Lake Hill school which had just been opened, will retire at the end of the school term.

A social reformer and a prominent CCFer in politics, but a teacher who firmly excludes politics from the classroom, Dr. Thomas will continue his political activity after his retirement from teaching.

The native Victorian began his teaching career, without normal school training, in a one-room school at Bella Coola soon after graduating from high school.

Continuing his own studies, he gained his master's degree at the University of Manitoba, and his doctorate in paedagogy at the University of Toronto in 1943, 10 years after he had returned to British Columbia to teach at Cobble Hill high school and then Mount View.

At a school assembly yesterday afternoon, Dr. Thomas was given two handsome presents: an engraved travelling clock by the Y-Teen girls' group and a power mower by the student body.

"It was a complete surprise to me, the whole thing," said Dr. Thomas, visibly moved. "I do appreciate it so very, very much."
